Shawsheen gym to be converted to classrooms?

by Jeff Nazzaro

Local politicians, school activists and concerned parents met with Shawsheen Elementary School Principal Dick Gorham Wednesday afternoon for a tour of the facility aimed at demonstrating present and future overcrowding problems. The visit comes as a precursor to Monday night's board of selectmen meeting, where school officials are on the agenda to attempt to hash out a solution to the town's system-wide overcrowding and educational woes.

The group, which included Rep. James Miceli, Selectmen Chester Bruce, Diane Allan and Gerald Duggan and school activists Suzanne Clarkin, Agnes Fiumara and Carol Neville, was scheduled to visit the Wildwood Elementary School - also beset with overcrowding problems - after the Shawsheen tour.

Gorham said the problem at the Wildwood "is as dramatic, if not more dramatic than [the Shawsheen's] is."

Right now, enrollment at the Shawsheen is at 727 kindergarten through grade five children, with 26 teachers. The school's four fourth grade classes average 31 students per teacher, with two academic tutors. The fifth grade's three classes are just slightly lower (30.3) with no tutors.

To combat the problem, Gorham is proposing converting the gymnasium into two fifth grad classrooms to accommodate next year's crop of fifth graders - if he can get three more teachers. If not, the gym will stay a gym and classes will grow larger.

Additional problems persist at the Shawsheen, including a tiny library, inadequate special needs facilities, a burgeoning cafeteria 15-year-old computers and outdated text books - problems activists feel should be getting full attention right now, but which have to take a back seat to space issues.

Clarkin and Fiumara were present at the October 24 selectmen's meeting to ensure that space issues at least remained on the front burner.

"It just can't wait any longer. The crisis is here now," Clarkin said in a telephone interview Monday evening.

The solution, activists believe, is to reopen the Boutwell Street Elementary School. Last spring, Wilmington voters trounced a Prop. 2 1/2 override question that would have provided funds to reopen the Boutwell.

"The bottom line is we're pushing for the Boutwell," Fiumara said.

Before school officials decided to try for the Boutwell reopening, various other plans, including one which would have moved the town's eighth graders to the high school, were offered.

But activists and school officials are trying to warn the town against applying Band-Aid solutions.

"Right now there's talk from different town officials that they're looking for a short-term solution, which is ridiculous," Fiumara said.

The fastest growing segment of students right now is at the elementary school level and the town continues to build new housing developments that have been attracting young couples with children.

Last year, 114 new houses were built in Wilmington, with 146 being constructed through November of this year.

Vote early! Vote Often! At 7 a.m. the voters were already around the corner and down the hall at the Wildwood School as voters from precincts 4, 5 & 6 were waiting to due their patriotic chore. At the head of the line (since 6:25) was Anne Munro from Morse Ave, followed by Vittorio Iocco of Charlotte Ave.

Miceli wins by landslide

by Jeff Nazzaro

State Rep. James Miceli captured 79 percent of the vote in cruising to a landslide reelection win over Al Meegan.

Miceli was elected to his ninth consecutive term as 20th District Representative by taking 80 percent of the vote in Tewksbury and 76 percent in Wilmington.

"I'm gratified by the support which my constituents gave me," Miceli said from the Tewksbury Knights of Columbus Hall Tuesday night. "I'm overwhelmed by the support of my constituents and I hope I've reciprocated."

But Miceli took issue with the way this year's campaign was run by Meegan.

"This was probably one of the dirtiest campaigns that I've ever been involved in thanks to Mark Haldane, who played an active role in my campaign," Miceli stated, adding "and that last ad reached new depths of negative campaigning."

Miceli was referring to a Town Crier political ad signed by Meegan that declared "incumbency is the cocaine of politics."

Meegan was gracious Wednesday afternoon while stating his intentions to take on Miceli again two years from now.

"Congratulations to Jim Miceli, the people elected him to office," Meegan said. "I would like to thank all the people that voted for me and I hope to see them in two years.

"Given no changes, my plan would be to run again in two years. This year the people had a choice and they chose to stay with the incumbent.

Town property valuations dip 4 percent

by Jeff Nazzaro

Wilmington Principal Assessor Skip Moynihan Wednesday announced that the town has completed property revaluations and will have specific information available to residents beginning November 21.

Moynihan said residential property values have dipped by an average of four percent, while commercial and industrial properties have dropped a more substantial 14 percent.

The revaluation process, which took eight months, is required by law every three years.

Moynihan said it is too soon to say how revaluation figures will affect property taxes in town.

Mail some food to the commissary

by Jeff Nazzaro

FACT: Coconuts may be sent through the U.S. Mail without further packaging, provided proper postage and an address (don't forget the zip code) are affixed.

With that in mind, the Wilmington Post Office would like to remind the town's residents that they can put any non-perishable food items in their mailboxes, without postage or address, and they will be picked up.

The food items are for the Wilmington Community Fund's Food Commissary, the stock of which, with Thanksgiving only a gobble or two away, is significantly depleted.

But fear not. Come rain, snow, sleet or hail, those baked beans and Frosted Flakes will arrive at the food panty - which supplies food on a weekly basis to about 70 eligible Wilmington families - safe and sound.

The idea of picking-up food products from mailboxes came two years ago from 20-year Wilmington Post Office veteran Dave Orndorff.

With the food panty suffering from a lack of drop-offs, Orndorff wondered why the town's letter carriers couldn't serve in another helpful capacity. He suggested the idea to Post Master Jake Quinn, who was receptive and has been exceedingly cooperative with the project ever since.

And since it's inception, the project has helped deliver at times between 150 to 200 pounds of food to the commissary a week. However, those figures are down now to about 75 pounds a week, according to Orndorff.

"It's a wonderful thing," he said. "The people have to stay with it."

There is a national drive held every May, but beyond that, many people forget letter carriers will take food for the community fund.

But Orndorff never forgets the joy helping needy families brings to him and his fellow postal workers.

"I worked for the post office for 20 years and the day we did the national food drive, I never saw so many smiles on my co-workers faces," he said.

But with the holiday season fast approaching, the project could use a little boost, something it gets daily from the Wilmington Post Office.

"This would be no good without the cooperation of everybody at the post office," Orndorff said. "It's nice. Everybody feels good."

Rotary Auction

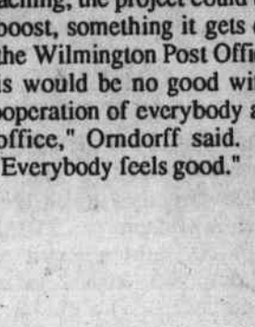

The Wilmington Rotary Club is gearing up for their annual auction. Don't miss their special supplement in today's Town Crier listing all the items to be auctioned. With over 200 items on the block the auction to be held live on WCTV is sure to be fun and profitable for all.

North Intermediate news

Children helping children..the 502,4 classroom students at the North Intermediate School are making two quilts to raffle off for charities. Mrs. Cahill's students have been busy putting their math skills and their everyday living skills to work. They have been learning the history being quilts and the stories and patterns tell.

Every year they try to come up with a new way to raise money for the New England Pediatric Center for severely and multi handicapped children. This year it was decided to raise money for two charities. After a discussion on domestic violence, something that has been focused on in the media, the students decided that they wanted to do something for the battered women and children. So they will be raising money for the Women Resource Center in Lawrence.

Papa Gino Night "Oh, what a night!" This was the response of Mr. Zagarella, manager of Wilmington's Papa Gino Restaurant. He said that the North Intermediate community response was the best he had ever seen for a fund raiser. Many families ate and socialized during the evening of October 3 when the pizza fund raiser occurred. The socialization was nice to see as parents and teachers blended with the crowd of students. We all shared in a good time for a good cause. A sincere thank you to all who participated in this successful evening.

Pumpkin weight guess. The giant pumpkin was at the North Intermediate School. The pumpkin was donated by Mr. John O'Connell, a Wilmington farmer. The students had fun trying to guess its weight in kilograms. The student who guessed closest was Mark DiGiovanni an eighth grader. The pumpkin weighed 214 pounds which is 97 kilograms.

Reseed scientist at North when most people hear the word scientist, they probably think of Einstein or Newton. Mr. William Anderson is the visiting scientist who volunteers his talents through Northeastern University Project Reseed. Mr. Anderson, a retired engineer, has traveled to many cities throughout the world. He visits each science class taking his 10 science lessons from acceleration to weather. His method is to have students actively participate in his demonstrations of science concept. He uses materials that can be found in most homes. We will be very grateful should one of our students become the next Newton.

It's YOUR Money

BY JOYCE BRISBOIS

GIFTS VS. BEQUESTS

In the early years of estate tax planning, it's often wisest to give gifts directly to children and grandchildren - $10,000 to $20,000 joint gifts a year to anyone you wish - to save on estate taxes. With time and luck, gifts appreciate substantially before the giver dies, and no estate taxes will be levied on those assets.

At the other end of a lifespan, while the $10,000-a-year gifts continue valuable, there may be other considerations, especially for someone very old or terminally ill. Appreciated property, for instance, should not be sold; a beneficiary would be better off inheriting it. A sale by the owner would result in a taxable gain, but passing through the estate, the property's basis becomes the value of the date of the owner's death. Result: no one has to pay taxes on the gain. (As gifts, the assets carry the basis of the original owner.) Depreciated assets should be sold, though, to lock in losses that can be carried forward on the spouse's separate return after death.

editorial

We have better things to do than this!

by Stu Neilson

What is going on? Why does an argument at the senior center get front page coverage in one paper and no mention in the other. Let's look at the numbers. There are over 3,000 seniors in Wilmington. Several people were involved in a heated discussion that spiraled down into personalities. Then two people argued about a trivial matter. Now one is (allegedly) suing the other over a paper cut. Is this news? Is this front page news? No.

The Wilmington Senior Center has been running for many years. They have an appointed commission to set policy. They have a paid director who works for the commission and ultimately for the town manager. It is part of our town government.

This is America. We have set ways of administering our government. If a person or group of persons has a problem, the proper channels to follow are to approach the director, the commission or the town manager.

Starting a new group to replace the appointed commission is not right. One cannot just take over the job of an appointed commission. Someone has decided to sling mud while the people in charge are not around to answer questions. This is back room, dirty, rotten politics. The losers of this mock battle will be the quiet, unassuming seniors who would like to receive the services they are used to. The director of the senior center has just returned from a stay in the hospital. The town manager has just returned from vacation. Isn't it just a little more than a coincidence that all this occurred while they were unavailable?

Let's just stop this show and let the town manager sort it out. He is a very capable man, a no-nonsense administrator. If someone is out of line the town manager will act appropriately, Eg: the library director. That's his job. Not mine, not yours – it's his.

Volunteer opportunities...

The holidays are fast approaching and this is the time of year people feel that they want to help those in need.Here is a local opportunity to do just that.

Mission of Deeds, a non-profit charitable organization based in Wilmington is looking for help. They are in need of volunteers to work in all aspects of their operation. The Mission of Deeds purpose is a Mission of caring and sharing, to help those in need. Those in need of both physical and spiritual support.

The Mission of Deeds delivers furniture, new and used, to families in this area that are sponsored by any one of a number of social service agencies. Deliveries in October included a woman and her two infant children in a battered women's shelter. Fire victims who had a tough time getting a new start in life, beds to homeless shelters, sheets and blankets to a family who needed help. The Mission of Deeds often delivers cribs to get babies off the floor, single beds, bureaus, new mattresses, lamps, rugs and sofas. These items are warehoused locally. Some are donated and some are purchased with monies contributed by local, concerned people and businesses.

Pickup of donations and deliveries are constantly being scheduled. We need warehouse help, truck drivers and people to help deliver the furniture. We also need help in our office, typing letters, putting together mailings, someone to man the phones and in many other areas.

To see how you can help or to learn more about the Mission of Deeds, please drop by the Volunteer Night being held November 15 at 7 in the Wilmington office. Coffee and pastries will be served and there will be people on hand to answer questions and tell about the Mission of Deeds. Call for details and directions: 1-508-657-5135.

letters to the editor

Dear Lieutenant McMahon:
The boys and girls of the Woburn Street School are your biggest fans.
Each year you explain the dangers of fire
Explaining how to avoid them you never tire.
You represent our wonderful fire department each year
With that warm smile and friendly cheer.
We look forward each year to your arrival
And the very important message you deliver on survival.
So thank you for those life saving tips
Which you give to us on your annual trips.
We hope we will never have to use them
And we know,Lt. McMahon, that you say, amen!

Richard DeRosa
Asst. Principal
Woburn Street School

Dear Larz:
On behalf of the Wilmington High School Varsity Golf Team, I would like to express our sincere appreciation to the Friends of Wilmington High School Golf for making this varsity golf season become a reality.

Faced with having our sport cut from the school department's athletic budget with only a few weeks from the start of the MVC Golf League, this group stepped forward with a pledge not to allow the high school golfers to be denied an important part of their school years.

In particular, I would like to thank the parents who spearheaded the raffle drive - Bob Torrani, Bill Dineen, Mike Wolley, and Charlie Southmayd, for their willingness to take on such a task which financially enabled the team to complete this year. They certainly set a fine example of support and encouragement for our golfers as well as to the athletic program.

Again, everyone associated with the Friends of Wilmington High School Golf are to be commended for their support, inspiration, and being there when it counted.

For the WHS Varsity Golf Team,
Alan Fessenden
Varsity Coach

Veterans' Day 1994

by Mike Kelley

On Friday, November 11, most Americans can sleep late or sip coffee at leisure. Veterans' Day is a national holiday. A day off from work. A long weekend to enjoy family, friends, hobbies,or sports. There are some Americans, however, who will spend the day a little differently. Across this nation and around the world, veterans and service members of the armed forces will take time to remember what this holiday is all about.

Veterans' Day was created by the government as a day to honor the service and sacrifice of all Americans who went off to fight in World War I. They called it Armistice Day, as the great war ended on the 11th day of November, 1918. As time went by, America entered new wars and new generations were shipped off to serve this nation. Armistice Day was renamed Veterans' Day to recognize every war our men and women served in. Since 1918, a lot of Americans have left home and family for duty in strange, far away places.

Veterans saw service during the 20s and 30s in the waters and mountains of Nicaragua, Haiti, the Philippines, and along the troubled rivers of China. When World War II began, the largest Army, Air Force and Navy ever assembled in modern history was formed by the American people. The men and women of that war can tell you of the things they saw and the hardships they endured on places like Bataan, Wake Island, Guadalcanal, and a hundred other miserable tropical islands across the Pacific as they battled the Imperial Forces of Japan. And while they slugged it out month by month, the price of victory was measured in real estate and human lives.

They can tell you plenty. All over the world, in the air, on the sea, over the land,our forces sacrificed for our nation. North Africa, Italy, Britain, France, Belgium, Germany, China, Burma, India, Iceland, and many places in between. On the oceans and under seas, over vast deserts and mountains, they went forward to preserve our freedom and grasp victory, and like World War I, some did not return, and others came home casualties of the war. And it did not stop there on that wonderful day in September, 1945 when the war ended in Tokyo Bay.

On the heels of our great victory came a new roll call of veterans who would serve in a series of Hot and Cold wars being waged by the Soviet Union and Red China. Berlin, Korean, Indo-China, East Europe, Vietnam, Formosa, and little brushfire wars where small groups of American Special Forces and Air Commandos risked their lives to hold back the insurgent armies. Air crews who took off to drop supplies and fly air reconnaissance missions, never to return. Many today still missing and unaccounted for.

From Desert One in Iran to the deserts of Arabia and Iraq, brave Americans have served this nation. How is it, we can ask, that despite all our nation's problems, we can still produce such fine men and women who put on the uniform of the United States of America? Where do we get them from? As you read this, young infantry soldiers are on a night foot patrol in the cold hills of Korea, in the mountains of Macedonia, and in the jungles of Columbia. As we enjoy or comfortable lives, they step through a night full of danger.

Somewhere out on the distant ocean or sea, the sun sets over a Naval Task Force as they launch jet fighters and helicopters into the coming darkness. As the deck rises and falls, a small army of technicians rush around making final adjustments and checks, loading bombs and missiles onto the wings of the powerful steel birds. Steam builds up in the catapults and turbine engines crank up to full power. The noise is earsplitting. One by one the jets blast off the deck and climb into the sky. Hearts are beating rapidly, eyes are darting across instrument panels and radar screens. The fleet is in action! Every day our young men and women put it all on the line for us.

Who are these people? They are your sons and daughters, your brothers or sisters, your husbands, your cousins or maybe, they are the boy and girl who grew up next door. They once delivered your newspaper or sold magazines and cookies in the Scouts. Someday they will come home to be with family and friends, and raise children of their own.

Right now, they are veterans on active duty. On this Friday, think about them, and all the brave Americans who went before them. Think about the men and women who lie in V.A. hospitals across America, their bodies and minds broken and their sacrifices now long forgotten. Their Silver and Bronze star medals for bravery collect dust in some old shoe box, and here we look at Friday as just another holiday to enjoy. But my fellow Americans, it is not just another holiday. It is a day of honor, courage, and love of country. I ask all of you to take a few moments on Friday, November 11th to remember what this day is all about, Veterans' Day, 1994.

... and for the Red Cross

You read about it in the papers or see it on tv, every day. People's lives are shattered by fires, hurricanes, floods, or earthquakes. Disaster has many faces and in the face of them all, the Red Cross is the face of hope. Your heart goes out to these people, and you wish you could help. You can! You can be a Red Cross disaster volunteer. As a Red Cross volunteer you'll be part of a team that helps a family left homeless by fire...a heart attack victim who needs CPR...a child who needs emergency first aid. You can be part of the community. You can meet other people who care. You can be ready when disaster strikes.

Red Cross volunteers help their neighbors prevent, prepare for, and cope with emergencies in a variety of ways. If you're one of these special people who would like to help someone when they are most needy, please call Gary Whitten at 508-372-6871. It will be the best job you never got paid to do.

Artsy, brainy, funky, sometimes crazy Townies

by Jeff Nazzaro

The we Interrupters have a group of conversations in Wilmington is acting debate like artsy-crazy for the love of wit, word, poetry and prose.

If the above sounds a trifle incoherent, it is. It is also a fair sampling of the type of multi-layered conversation held routinely by The - excuse me, I'm sorry, no, you go ahead - Interrupters.

The Interrupters is a self-described "loose affiliation of artsy, brainy, funky, and sometimes crazy Townies and their friends" who get together to "write, make art, discuss issues, dine, be entertained and just explore/share/enjoy a lifestyle alternative to today's pop culture."

If the above sounds a little like an ad in the personal columns, it sort of is and it also helps explain why The Interrupters got started in the first place.

You know the ads: tall, thin, attractive, friendly, outgoing, loving, affectionate, emotionally/financially secure non-drinker/smoker who likes long, moon-lit walks, fragrant meadows, horses, 3-D art and Debbie Boone records looking for like-minded individual between the ages of 28-32 for fun-loving, serious friendship leading to more ... please send photo.

The Interrupters, a group of like-minded individuals with definite common interests, are currently looking for more of the same. They also happen to be practitioners of various fine arts, ranging from painting to poetry.

As a forum for showcasing their creative work, they have published a newsletter, "The Interrupters News & Review," an eclectic mix of poetry, prose, commentary and interviews and a neat way of avoiding the slush pile of so many editors of literary magazines.

Magazines with circulations of 250 looking for a short story or poem that is tall, thin, attractive ... you may get the idea.

The Interrupters was founded by longtime Silver Lake area resident Margaret "Maggie" Imbimbo and her daughters, Betsy Woods and Diana Miladin and, according to the "News & Review" "serves as a vehicle for creative, intellectual and social expression for like-minded individuals from, or in some way connected to the Town of Wilmington."

"What we hope to do is to celebrate the intelligence, creativity, and the idiosyncrasy and the individuality of this community, which I just love," Miladin said on a recent edition of Teri LaBella's local cable TV program "Wilmington Within."

And everything from new romance to old friendship, stunning natural scenes and graduation party debacles is chronicled in the first edition of the "News & Review."

The issue begins, after a front page introduction, with a scathing, pseudonymously written commentary "Regarding the Matter of Dorothy Wiberg" in the screaming headline tradition of Mark Twain.

From there, a page is given to two poems by Wilmington resident Dan Murphy, whose work has been collected in a volume entitled "The Fractured Emerald."

Other poetic Interrupters include Miladin, Imbimbo, Jane (Woods) Ceres, Michele Pregent, Hinda-Jonathan, Anne Buzzell, Daniel Woodbury and Peter Lepore.

Prose work was published in the "News & Review" by Woods, Larry Jones, Don Boudreau and Eileen Lepore.

The Interrupters expect a bigger and better successor to volume one sometime around Thanksgiving and are currently hard at work preparing it in Woods' basement - The Interrupters clubhouse.

To call it anything but a clubhouse would be unfair. But this cozy room is lacking the Do Not Enter, Stop, and Dangerous Curves street signs and Cyndi Crawford shrine punctuating your average suburban hideaway.

This is a literary lair, and is accommodated accordingly, with original, hand-crafted art deco works from Woods that include a button-disguised fuse box, creative paint storage and lots of strategically placed spray paint.

With the people involved - a core group of between six and 12 - the setting creates the "playful, non-structured atmosphere," Miladin likes to interact in and glides relaxedly into the "kind of free-floating salon," Woods calls The Interrupters.

Interested artists, art enthusiasts, conversationalists and people who just like to sit around, smoke cigarettes, drink coffee and relate can call The Interrupters clubhouse hot line - complete with call waiting - at (508) 657-7098. Original poetry or prose can be submitted care of The Interrupters to 166 Main St., Wilmington, MA 01887.

Mancini's proud owners... Jim and Willa Meehan

You don't have to leave Wilmington for quality seafood, chicken, steaks, salads, pasta, pizza, subs, and more! Just go to Mancini's... where the food is great, but the meals aren't expensive!

"Try us... you'll be back," says owner, Jim Meehan. Extra time and effort is the reason why. At Mancini's, they take time to make good food - even making their own tartar sauce, house dressing, and chicken, veal, & eggplant parmesan. Why? Because homemade is better than pre-made.

Visit Mancini's dining room for lunch (11am-3pm) and enjoy one of their 1/2-Sub Sandwiches - served with french fries or cole slaw, and soup or chili - all for only $3.99. Or, try one of their luncheon specials... most priced under $5.00

For dinner, choose from a selection of appetizers, entrees, and delicious deserts. They also have a liquor license, and a children's menu.

"Keno" is coming to Mancini's. They'll be one of the first - watch for an announcement. For now, they are a Lottery Agent and have an "Instant Action" lottery ticket machine.

Mancini's is open daily, 10am to 10pm, and Friday until 11pm. They accept Master Card and Visa on orders of $10.00 or more. They have a full Take-Out Menu, and free delivery within a 4-mile radius. And remember, according to Jim, "If you can't find it here, you're not hungry!"

Robert V. Mulloney, R.Ph.Mgr., looks through his customer files.

Pay a visit to Village Apothecary... and return to the days of the neighborhood drug store. Syed and Shameem Peeran, owners of the store for the last three years, are proud of their "neighborhood drug store" image. They may not do as great a volume as the larger chain stores, but that means they have more time to concentrate on their customers. And they do pride themselves on customer service, especially in their pharmacy.

Robert Mulloney, Village Apothecary's Registered Pharmacist, can fill all your prescription needs. The pharmacy is equipped with an excellent computer system which can keep track of all your medications, interactions with other drugs, and assist you in billing your insurance company. The store offers charge accounts for prescriptions, free prescription delivery, and they honor all third party prescriptions. Plus, their prices are competitive.

In addition to the pharmacy, Village Apothecary carries a full line of medicines and remedies - more brands than dept. or grocery stores, "Full Value" medications - a generic line of products, pharmacy items such as back, ankle, and knee braces, vitamins, cosmetics, gifts, party goods, candy, cold soda, magazines & newspapers, and greeting cards - a new line is expected shortly. They are an on-line Mass. Lottery agent, a copy center, and rent wheel chairs, crutches, and walkers.

Village Apothecary is located at 211 Lowell Street, Wilmington (in Lucci's Plaza). Store hours are M-F: 8-8, Sat: 8-6, Sun: 8-4 – Pharmacy hours are M-F: 9-7, Sat: 9-6, and Sun: 10-1. Stop by whenever you're in the neighborhood!

A message from Tewksbury's superintendent

by Christine L. McGrath, Ph.D
Superintendent

American Education week will be celebrated across our nation during the week of November 13, 1994. The Tewksbury Public Schools have planned many interesting activities at each of our schools to commemorate this important annual event. The School Committee, faculty and the administration are pleased to inform you of the events and activities which will be taking place in each of our schools. We would like to extend an invitation to all parents and concerned citizens to visit our schools during this week and view the Tewksbury Public Schools in action.

Tewksbury Memorial High School has expanded the celebration throughout the month of November. The National HOnor Society will host a school tour and coffee on Monday, November 7, 1994 from 9 to 11 a.m.dd On WEdnesday, November 9, the "King of the HIll" Academic Club contest will take place from 5 to 6:30 p.m. in the library. On Tuesday, November 15, the school will host "Meet Your School Council" from 9 to 10:30 p.m. This program will afford parents and community members an important opportunity to learn about the very active school council and the important role which this council has taken in support of the school. On Thursday, November 17, the school will host an Open House from 7 to 9 p.m. Teachers will be in their classrooms to meet with parents and to answer questions about their program and to address concerns related to the progress of individual students.

The John W. Wynn Middle School will continue the tradition of welcoming parents to follow a full day schedule. Monday, November 14 has been reserved for the parents of students in grade eight, Tuesday November 16, for grade seven. Parents are welcome to visit the school between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 2:20 p.m. and to follow their son or daughter's daily schedule. Many parents participated in this program last year and reported that the format provided them with a unique "first hand" view of a middle school program.

The elementary schools have planned a wide variety of activities. At the Dewing School Parent Visitations have been scheduled for Tuesday, November 15 and Thursday November 17 from 9:30 to 11 a.m. Individual teachers will be presenting classroom programs. The health program will focus on good nutrition in preparation for Thanksgiving. Special classroom programs on the Caldecott and the Newbery Book Award winners and a celebration of National Young Readers' Day will be hosted by Mrs. Morris and Mrs. Ryan. Interviews with senior citizens and reports on the Town of Tewksbury will be led by Mrs. Morris and Ms. Read.

The North Street School has scheduled parent visitation on Monday, November 14 and Tuesday, November 15 from 9:15 to 11:15 a.m. Parents of students in the afternoon kindergarten may visit on those days from 1 to 2 p.m. Each grade level has planned special thematic units in the areas of language arts, multimedia music instruction, computer technology, creative writing and government and the law. The reading specialist will be conducting a school wide reading incentive program utilizing the electronic book shelf.

The Heath Brook School will host parent visits from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. on Tuesday and Thursday November 15 and 17 and on Thursday, November 17 from 1 to 2:30 p.m. for the parents of children in the afternoon kindergarten session. The school will focus on reading across America with activities including making book jackets and city and state t-shirt day. The school theme will evolve around giving thanks with classrooms conducting lessons on the family, the first Thanksgiving, writing about "thankful," poetry readings about Thanksgiving and a unit on explorers to the new world.

UNDERSTANDING THE FINE PRINT
An important part of being an informed buyer or seller in a real estate transaction is understanding the purchase contract. Before you sit down with an agent to make a written offer to purchase a home or receive an offer on your home, you should take a look at the real estate forms used in your area.
In some areas the Realtors use standard contracts which have been approved by the local Board of Realtors and in other areas they use agreements drawn up by lawyers which contain a significant number of clauses. You should get a copy of the paperwork you will be signing so that you can read it at your leisure and absorb the information. Don't hesitate to ask questions about anything that you don't understand; and if any of the standard clauses do not fit your particular situation, you can discuss the wording that you would like to have changed. The key here is to familiarize yourself with the paperwork before you have found your new dream house or buyers for your home.

ARE YOU PROTECTED?
by Edward H. Wilkens
INFLATION PROTECTION
QUESTION: I understand that there is an inflation protection that will automatically keep your homeowners coverage increasing with inflation. How does this work?
ANSWER: It is fairly simple. With this type of coverage, the dollar amount of your insurance is AUTOMATICALLY increased as the value of your home and possessions goes up along with inflation. It can't stop inflation from rising, but it can see to it that you are not caught napping by making sure your home and possessions don't outgrow their protection. Inflation has caused most people to have their homes insured for far less than their replacement value.

AN INFLATION ENDORSEMENT automatically keeps your property covered as inflation rises.

The Roberts Estate on Burlington Avenue in Wilmington is still an imposing sight. The 60 acre estate is being cut house lots, each as impressive as the stone building, in a contemporary way.

Fred Roberts, candy merchant and more

by Capt. Larz Neilson

Fred Roberts first appeared in Wilmington about 1900. Born in Berwick, Maine of an old Yankee family, he was a prosperous man. Shortly afterwards his brother Herbert became a resident of Wilmington. Both men were candy manufacturers, Herbert making a well known brand of caramels and Fred being the man who made chocolates.

Fred Roberts bought a home on the northerly side of Burlington Avenue. There were two homes near each other, a few hundred feet westerly of the present Deming Way.

Westerly from the home he had purchased the road ran uphill. On that hill there were three homes. Beyond the crest of the hill was a larger home, with a barn behind it.

Fred demolished one of the homes, later. The two remaining homes were moved across Burlington Avenue. Today Roberts Road runs between them. Today there are 22 homes facing on Roberts Road, all property which was once owned by Fred.

The larger home on the property which Fred had purchased was owned by a family named Kirkpatrick, a family with which he was acquainted. Today that home is across Burlington Avenue from Boutwell Street, a three family home.

Fred's wife, Althera Clendennin was a very kindly lady, a few years older than her husband. There were three children, all girls, Helen, Althera and another whose name has been lost. Althera married Harry Fletcher, the coachman. That couple moved to Melrose.

Fred Roberts had a place of business in Boston. An important factor in his business was a German born lady named Alice Albrink. She was the source of many ideas which helped to market those chocolates. She was the treasurer of the company.

In those days chocolates were sold largely in bulk. Alice suggested a nice covered box, one that would be attractive to a young man about to go a-courting.

She further suggested that the slogan to be on the cover should be "For those who discriminate." Those words were printed on the cover. It is to be believed it was in her hand writing.

Althera Clendennin Roberts died in 1906. Two years later Fred took, as his second wife, Alice Albrink, one of the most gracious ladies ever to live in Wilmington.

Business was good. Fred began to think of a larger home. He looked, speculatively at the hill beyond his home and the next one beyond it, known from the ancient days as Bear Hill. Fred bought all four homes, and 60 acres of land. The homes, with the exception of the Kirkpatrick home, were torn down.

Fred began to plan his home.

He chose Dinny McLaughlin of Woburn to be his stone mason. Irish born stone masons, in those days excelled in construction which used only granite, and granite which was never cut. They used large stones, and no small ones. Those men had acquired an eye for beauty with stones, because they had nothing else with which to build.

Dinny was rough. Dinny was tough. But he was a friendly man who was appreciated by the men with whom he worked.

In those days there was a railroad between the center of Woburn and Wilmington. There were daily trains, trains which were discontinued about 1930.

Dinny employed about 15 men to work on the Roberts house. The laborers were from North Woburn, Italian. The masons were from Woburn, all Irish. Dinny and his masons would take the early train from Woburn and the Italians would get on the train in North Woburn.

Everyone would get off the train in Wilmington. Then Dinny would lead the way up Burlington Avenue to Bear Hill, many of the men with tools over their shoulders.

There may be a few persons in Wilmington today who remember those morning processions, and the men walking back to the railroad station at night. It was quite a procession, every man carrying his own tools.

There were four stone masons in the Woburn area about whom it would be said they did excellent work. Dinny was one of them.

All the stones for the Roberts House were found in those 60 acres. A Wilmington man, Herb Barrows had the job of finding the best stones, and of bringing those stones to the site of the work. Fred Roberts provided a dump cart and a horse, with which to collect stones.

Not only did Dinny and his men build the house, but there were stone walls on the estate which were built afterwards. Before the men were finished there was a large carriage house, a windmill, a hen house, and a big pig house.

The Roberts House had a large cellar. On the first floor was a fine entry, a sitting room, a sun room, a music room, and a large kitchen. The second floor had five large bedrooms, and there was a third floor above that.

Two rooms on the first floor should be described more thoroughly.

The sunroom was filled with tropical plants and palm trees. There were several large bowls of goldfish - dozens of goldfish.

The dining room, with large oaken table and murals on all four walls, painted by a lady who signed herself L. Parsons. In one scene of Gay Head, (Martha's Vineyard) was the New York to Boston steamer (the Yale, or the Harvard), in the distance. Another mural was a painting of Rockport. Another wall had a mural of Squantum. All were painted in oil.

The kitchen was the domain of Mammy Johnson, a large negro woman. She had a daughter to help her, and she also had the occasional help of several girls in the neighborhood.

As the children of the later Roberts family came along, Fred, Nancy and Phoebe, Mammy solved any problems by resorting to a speaking tube which led into the cellar.

She would blow into the tube and a whistle could be heard at the other end. Harry Fletcher, the coachman, would be expected to be there.

Whether or not that gentleman was in the cellar was unimportant. "Mister Fletcher, come up here!" The children would, in an instant be on their good behavior.

There was also the flower garden, the pride and joy of all who lived in Wilmington. Designed by A. Chandler Manning, a landscape architect who lived in a large home on Glen Road, lately the Bliss home, he also chose all the trees he wanted moved, in those 60 acres. Herbert Barrows of the North Wilmington Nurseries moved the trees.

Bill Babine, of Laurel Avenue, Wilmington was the head gardener. He excelled in the growing of flowers. He worked on the Roberts estate until 1936.

Alice Roberts, after the death of Fred had decided to restore everything to the state in which it was when he died. Engaged in this effort were many persons, including Albert Robinson and Mr. Bowser, carpenters, Ted Surrette, Eugene Surrette, Walter Pierson, Frank Marcie, Walter (Porky) Meuse, Eddie Carpenter, Lester Burns and George Blaisdell Jr.

This was the home of Fred Roberts. But there was a summer home, too, in Wells Beach, Maine. Otto Bischoff, after his return from France in 1919 had become the chauffeur for Fred Roberts. There was an excellent array of vehicles on the estate. There was a dump cart, a Victoria and a Cab Wagon. Mrs. Roberts had a mare, which she handled expertly. It had a reputation of "pulling herself blind."

Roberts had bought a Stanley Steamer, not the first in Wilmington, to get him to and from Wells Beach in a hurry. He found that he had to stop that steamer, to rewater it. So he turned it back to his manufacturer.

At the end of World War I, Fred Roberts had a twin six Packard Limousine, a Packard Twin Car, a Buick Limousine and a Ford Run About. There was a tower, 40 or 50 feet high, near the garage. When his son Fred Roberts became a Boy Scout, in 1924, the tower was used for signals, by members of Troop One, Wilmington.

On Fridays Fred Roberts would get up at 5 a.m., eat breakfast, and then walk to the Wilmington railroad station to take the train to Boston. When he returned he would be met by Otto, in one of the Packards. During the summer months when everyone was at Wells Beach Fred would not return to Wilmington. Instead Fred took a train to North Wilmington where he would be met by Otto, with the Twin Six. They would depart from North Wilmington in a swirl of dust, for a four hour ride to Wells Beach, Maine.

Fred frequently made that trip in the first two years after World War I. Then he sold his business. He died shortly afterwards, October 20, 1920. He was buried in Somersworth, N.H.

He died a millionaire. He had sold everything in his business, trade mark and all.

Electric lights

If Fred Roberts ever thought of it, he probably would have easily won any political office he desired, in Wilmington. He could have gone on, too, to state office. In his shy way he was a popular man.

His only political action was when he agitated for electric lights in Wilmington. The year was about 1909.

Fred Roberts, Dr. Daniel Buzzell, Schamiel McIntosh and Charlie Hudson were some of the Wilmington residents who sought to have Wilmington join up with the newly formed Reading Municipal Light Department.

McIntosh and Hudson owned properties in what is now called Wilmington Square (at the intersection of Main Street and Church Street). The selectmen called for a meeting, to discuss the subject.

Prior to that town meeting there was a parade, from Wilmington Square to the town hall. Schamiel McIntosh was in the second rank, with a goat.

Fred, Charlie and Dr. Buzzell led that parade, each with a lantern, and Fred in a full dress suit. The goat, it is said, was right behind Dr. Buzzell.

The vote in that town meeting was overwhelmingly in favor of electricity. And, as far as is known, that was the only political action in which Fred Roberts ever participated.

The relationship of Fred and Alice Roberts to the Wilmington United Methodist Church is a subject worthy of a little discussion.

Back in the days before World War I the Wilmington United Methodist Church was in the present corner of Thurston Avenue and Church Street. Behind it was a home which had been used by the Rev. Mr. Thurston, an earlier clergyman.

Alice Albrink Roberts was one of the ladies who conducted the Sunday School. Nina Kincaid Barrows and Mrs. Arthur Hamilton were two others.

Fred Roberts and Alice rode to church every Sunday, and the late Lt. Cmdr. Albert Marfleet, USN rode with them. At that time he was a boy living on Boutwell Street. He told this writer he was the only person to go to church in a car owned by Roberts who was not of that family.

As this writer understands the story, it was Fred Roberts who donated the church organ to the Wilmington Methodists.

Mrs. Roberts too, made a donation of a house for the pastor and his wife, sometime about 1916. It stands today beside the present church, one of four or five homes in Wilmington built on the same plan. This writer terms them "Sidelinker" homes because at least a few were built by men of that family, back in the 1880s.

Of course young Fred Roberts was in the same car as was Al Marfleet. Fred became a physician, and in the very early days of World War II, when this writer departed for the war zone in the Pacific from San Francisco, Dr. Fred Roberts was serving in a military hospital, in that city.

This writer has always believed that Fred Roberts, Sr. was a physician when he moved to Wilmington about 1900. He was a physician who made his money selling candy.

League knows its town

Michael Caira, Wilmington's town manager, was the guest speaker on October 25 at the "Know Your Town Town" meeting sponsored by the League of Women Voters. In President Barbara Sullivan's introduction of Mr. Caira, she highlighted his background and experience at the national, state and local levels.It was also noted that in the League's Student Government Program in 1966, Michael Caira was appointed town manager by the student Board of Selectmen.

Mr. Caira gave an informative presentation on how local government works in Wilmington. He explained Chapter 592, the "Town Manager Act," sometimes referred to as "The Town Charter," which was adopted by the Town of Wilmington in 1950. According to Mr. Caira, this legislation professionalized town government on a full time basis. Previously, the Board of Selectmen was responsible for the day to day operation of the town. With the acceptance of Chapter 592, these duties and responsibilities as well as appointing authority were given to the town manager.

Mr. Caira also explained the internal and external budget process which begins in November and culminates with the Town Meeting in April. He pointed out that the budget becomes the working plan for the town. Following his presentation, Mr. Caira answered questions from the audience. He clarified how an article is placed on the Town Meeting Warrant and how members were appointed to boards and commissions.

Those unable to attend this informative "Know Your Town" meeting, are urged to watch for it on local WCTV.

In honor of all veterans

It is felt that the building of the Vietnam Veterans' Memorial Wall was a major step in the healing process of a nation and its people. With this in mind, the following excerpt from a research paper written by Jim McNamee, is submitted in honor of all veterans.

It was difficult for many people to understand what a great deal of meaning this memorial could stimulate. One man had a vision, one man fought to the finish to give respect to those 60,000 veterans who fought for our country and died. Those Americans who gave their lives for our country didn't ask for this to happen, and this one man, Jan Scruggs, felt these men and women deserved to be recognized for their courage.

In March of 1979, Scruggs, a former rifleman, saw the movie entitled "Deer Hunter." After witnessing the deaths and how they were abandoned, he was terribly disturbed, and that night, Scruggs couldn't sleep. Flashbacks occurred. Three o'clock a.m. - 12 men were unloading an ammo truck when Scruggs heard an explosion. Body parts were everywhere. They were his friends. His flashbacks ended,but faces continued to pile up, and he constantly thought of the names. He told his wife he was going to build a memorial. Scruggs was a determined man and would strive to accomplish his dream. He did not want to forget those who sacrificed their lives. His friends would be on that wall...and your's.

During that same year, the Vietnam Veterans' Memorial Federation focused on what sort of memorial they wanted. Scruggs came forward and stated what had been on his mind since the beginning, the names. The Memorial had its complications with money and people who differed in opinion. Despite the controversy, they continued on the rough road to accomplish their goal. When the wall was revealed to the Nation, emotions were unexplainable, as tremendous feelings gripped the population. Many people came to see a special name. Everyday someone leaves a flag, a flower, a snapshot, a memento, a poem, or a personal note.

A day after the unveiling, a James J. Kilpatrick column appeared in the nation's newspapers. He walked through the mud to see the construction site. "Gradually the long walls...came into view," Kilpatrick wrote. "Nothing I had heard or written had prepared me for the moment. I could not speak. I wept...This memorial has a pile driver's impact. No politics, no recriminations. Nothing of vain glory or of glory either. For 20 years I have contended that these men died in a cause as noble as any cause for which war was ever waged...never mind. The memorial carries a message for all ages: this is what war is all about." The impact was unpredictable on many people. The feelings were not there until they saw the black wall of names staring them in the face. Families and friends of the men and women on the wall touched the panels where the names were. These touches were not just tangible, they were gentle and with feeling, as if the stone were alive. To see loved ones on the wall, made them thank God for the time they had with these loved ones. The healing of a nation was about to begin.

Over five million people visited the Vietnam Veterans' Memorial Wall during its first two years. It is the second most visited memorial in the nation's capital. Some days, over 20,000 people come. Late at night, at dawn, someone is always there. Most visitors touch the wall, hug each other or both. They linger and talk, and carry part of it away with them.

U.S. News and World Report called it in 1983, one year after its dedication, "The most emotional ground in the nation's capital." People are awed, perhaps most of all, by its reflectiveness. The memorial does not dictate any emotional or political views. The more you look, the more you'll see. Americans are learning that to forget too easily only increases pain and invites repetition of past mistakes. So, from the mouths of men and women who shall never be forgotten, :"We were young....We have died....Remember us."

Jim McNamee, son of John and Marie McNamee, Two Lawrence Street, is currently a senior at Tewksbury Memorial High School. He is an art student and a staff contributor to "Smoke Signals," the high school newspaper. Jim is employed as a customer service associate with K-Mart Corporation and previously worked at Mac's Dairy Farm. He plans to study communications and journalism at Suffolk University next fall.

Hundreds at Elks function

Seniors are deeply grateful to the Tewksbury/Wilmington Elks who again gave 250 Wilmington seniors a night to remember. As in previous years, it was amazing to see these men and women all volunteering their time working so hard to please, preparing and serving this large group of delighted seniors.

I think this must be a labor of love for all the members involved, as the most of them had finished working hard at their employment throughout the day. All had to be tired, but the way they covered all the tables in such a pleasant manner, one would not have noticed it. Again we thank all the members of the Tewksbury/Wilmington Elks for this yearly donation that the seniors look forward to.

Commissioners meet Nov. 15

The commissioners meeting will be held in the function room of the Senior Center, 15 School St., Tuesday, Nov. 15 from 1:30 p.m. Unfortunately, I was not able to attend the last two meetings. I have received many calls from confused seniors. I will answer all the questions asked of me at this meeting. As I have said in this column many times, this is a commissioners meeting, but it is also your meeting where the seniors can meet to voice their input into subjects that will effect them, placed on the floor for a vote.

That is what we, in America call the democratic form of Government. Our input might be voted out by the majority, but we at least had the opportunity to give it. Unless you attend the meetings, votes will be taken and passed without your approval or disapproval. It is very important for all of us to be in attendance at every monthly meeting. The next one being next Tuesday.

Dr. Mullin

Wednesday, Nov. 16, from 9 a.m., Dr. Mullin will be at the Center to treat ailments of the feet. Please call for an appointment.

Girls lose in final minutes

by Jeff Nazzaro

Wilmington High School's girls soccer season came to an abrupt end Friday when a defensive communication breakdown led to a goal and a 3-2 win for Pentucket Regional High School in the first round of state tournament play.

Things started well - once they got to Groveland (yeah, Groveland, Mass.) for coach Sue Hendee's Wildcats in this rematch with future Cape Ann League rival Pentucket.

Wilmington dropped a 1-0 home decision Pentucket earlier this season, but struck first when it counted - in tournament play.

A Pentucket hand ball led to a penalty for the Cats, and leading scorer Renee Vachon showed why she was the team's most lethal forward this season, striking the ball into the low, left corner to make it 1-0.

Pentucket would answer seven minutes later, however, before senior halfback Denise Langone would give Wilmington the lead back.

The goal was set up by a powerful direct kick from junior fullback Nicole Dussault, with Langone alertly jabbing home the rebound.

But Pentucket wouldn't go away, knotting the game at two with nine minutes to play in the half.

Both teams played a more conservative second half, but with less than five minutes to play in the game, Pentucket converted a Wilmington miscommunication into the winning goal.

For Wilmington, the 3-2 final tally marked the end of solid high school soccer careers for forward Karen DeFrancesco, fullback Kelly Silva and Langone; all-stars Kerri Casella (forward) and halfback Nancy Pote; and all-conference selections Jacqui Hayden, a fullback, halfback Jaime Forgett and goalkeeper Mary Armata.

But the future looks bright for Wilmington girls soccer. Dussault and Vachon will return for senior seasons to anchor a club bursting with potential, that includes sophomore forward Melissa Palermo and halfback Nicole Ciaramaglia.

Steve O'Neil is about to boot one of his two extra point kicks. The WHS senior ran for 202 yards while scoring three touchdowns and blocking a punt and on top of that kicking the two PAT's for WHS Football team's first win this season in their 35-22 victory over Dracut this past Friday night. (Photo by Phil Fenton).

O'Neil rushes for 202 yards in first win

by James Pote

In their last year in the MVC, the WHS football team assured themselves that they would walk away with atleast one victory - which fell on Friday night against Dracut, with a 35-22 victory.

"It's great to finally come out on top. We will enjoy this one until Monday when we start to get ready for Lawrence," said head coach Gerry Sullivan.

On the third play of their first drive, Wilmington's power back Steve O'Neil motored in 51 of his 202 total yard (on 23 carries) performance, for his first of three touchdowns of the evening, for the 6-0 lead after his extra point boot attempt went wide.

Dracut then started their drive on their own 25 yard line and went all the way to Wilmington's 15 yard line on a fourth and three play where they decided to go for it. Wilmington's Sean Kerrigan put a stop to their drive as he stopped their number one running back Russ Settlemoire for only a one yard gain forcing the ball over into the Wildcats hands.

O'Neil and Kerrigan then switched off plays on Wilmington's next drive which went 80 yards on nine plays. O'Neil carried the ball six of those times for 60 yards while Kerrigan (11 carries 59 yards) carried three times for 15 yards - (there was a penalty mixed in). O'Neil scored his second touchdown of the day on a eight yard sweep. They then added two more points with a fake pass by quarterback Bill Harrison (4-6 59 yards) who then ran in the two point conversion for the 14-0 lead with just 28 seconds left in the first quarter.

Wilmington dominated in that first quarter with a total of 133 yards - 114 of them belonging to O'Neil, to Dracut's 58.

At the start of the second quarter, Wilmington's defense forced Dracut to go three and out. Wilmington then took over on another impressive drive, mostly by the 25 yard screen pass by Harrison to Rich Gillis, before Wilmington coughed up the ball giving it back to the Middies on their own 22 yard line.

Again, Dracut was unable to get any momentum going in their first three plays, so they decided to kick on fourth down and 14 from their own 18. O'Neil blocked the ensuing punt and he walked into the endzone for the 21-0 lead after he nailed the extra points in between the uprights.

Dracut then had a come back of their own scoring a 31 yard touchdown on a bomb to Settlemoire to make it 21-6, with just under two minutes remaining in the first half.

Wilmington's Offensive Co-ordinator Rob Alyward then pulled all the right strings in their next drive. Starting from their own 46 yard line, O'Neil went nine yards on two plays before Harrison was sacked for a loss of four to have it fourth and five from Dracut's 49 yard line. O'Neil then was set for his usual punt where he faked it to find senior Sean Crowley wide open for a completed 18 yard pass gain for another first down.

"That was a check call for Stevie. Sean was wide open and the play worked. It was a good catch," Sullivan said.

Harrison then loss one yard on an attempted keeper run, that followed by a 10 yard pass to Gillis who then pitched it to O'Neil for an additional four yards to set up another first down from the Dracut 20 yard line.

Four plays later on two passes, one a nine yard gain to Gillis and then a five yard touchdown pass to Brian Carroll put the Cats to a comfortable 28-6 lead going into the lockeroom for their halftime break.

The second half Wilmington was getting a little bit too comfortable as Dracut had a little comeback of their own. After Dracut went three and out, Harrison ran back the punt for 60 yards for what appeared to be a touchdown, only to see one of his teammates get called for a clipping penalty sending the ball to Dracut's 49 yard line.

That penalty hurt Wilmington because on their fourth down play, a usual occurrence happened as O'Neil was set to receive the snap for his punt, the ball sailed over his head all the way down to Wilmington's two yard line where O'Neil alertly tried to pass it off where it was nearly completed to one of his teammates, to force the ball over to Dracut on Wilmington's 37 yard line.

Nine plays later, on a ten yard run by Wes Caron, Dracut closed the margin to a 28-14 score with just a little over two minutes left in the third quarter.

Wilmington again started their next drive on Dracut's 49 yard line and once again they found the endzone. O'Neil and Kerrigan once again took the workload for a combined gain of 58 yards, until Harrison ran in a nine yarder for Wilmington's last touchdown of the evening, which gave them a pretty good boost at 34-14, with the extra point good.

Dracut again found the endzone on a spectacular tipped catch on a 58 yard screamer to close the gap and the game. And for the second straight year, Wilmington walked away with a offensive gem against the Middies, with last year's walloping 42-12 score to this year's 35-22.

"I thought our line played really well. I thought Steve [O'Neil], Sean [Kerrigan], Richie [Gillis] and Brian [Carroll] all played really well. But, we still have alot of work left. But its hard to yell at them on their first victory," Sullivan said.

Sullivan also said he was pleased with the work of freshmen Brian Mason and Jamie Campbell who continue to show alot of promise.

This upcoming Saturday afternoon, Wilmington will host Lawrence for a non-league bout. Last year Wilmington walked away with a 12-0 victory but this year it will not be that easy against the Lancers who have taken a one year vacation from the league.

"Lawrence is a very good team. They have most of their starters back from last year. Hopefully, we will be ready for them."

Pop Warner C team losses tough battle in states

Peabody 19 Wilmington 12

Wilmington's Pop Warner C Team lost a hard fought battle Sunday in Eastern Mass. Pop Warner playoffs.

Peabody received the kickoff and drove 65 yards to go up 6-0. Matt James returned the kickoff 55 yards to the Peabody 27 yard line.

Following a 10 yard pass from Matt James to end Josh Hiltz, a five yard run by Jim Fennelly and a nine yard run by Mark Boudreau, Mark scored on a three yard run to tie the score at 6-6.

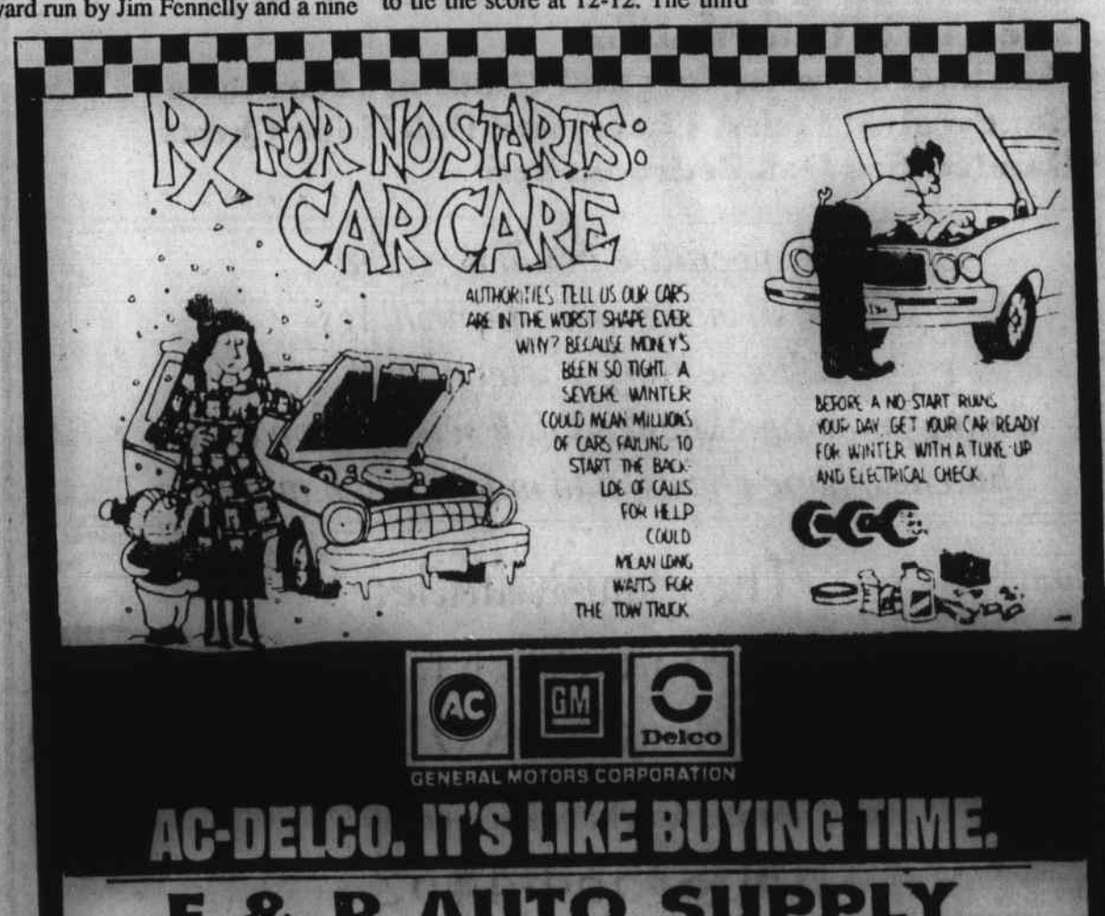

Previously, Peabody (last year's New England champs) outscored their opponents 178-0.

Mark Boudreau put Wilmington up 12-6 in the second quarter on a nice 26 yard touchdown run off the left tackle.

Peabody came back late in the half to tie the score at 12-12. The third quarter was scoreless. Peabody scored late in the fourth quarter to close out Wilmington.

Wilmington played a great game against Peabody. It was a great team effort.

Wilmington is the Middlesex League "C" Team champion. Congratulations to this group of boys who played well all year!

Shoot-out decides WHS Boys Soccer season

by James Pote

In the fifth overtime after 110 minutes of back and forth soccer, WHS boys soccer team fell short in their tournament bid, going into the controversial shoot - out against Saugus on Friday afternoon.

The game was scoreless through the first 80 minutes of play. Therefore, two ten minute overtimes periods were in order. With just forty seconds left in the first of the two overtime periods, Saugus scored on a Wilmington mis-communication to take the 1-0 lead.

In the second overtime and just four minutes left to play, Wilmington's Mike Lacorcia scored the tying goal on Ryan Swayze assist from a direct kick to send the game into yet another overtime period.

Now after 100 minutes of tied soccer, the teams then had to battle out two five minute overtime periods, where again the score remained 1-1, sending the game into the controversial shoot-out.

In the shoot-out the players have to go straight down and they cannot change directions.

In that case, Wilmington's Greg Peters went first and he was stopped by Saugus' goalie Josh Soroko, who came up with 15 saves throughout the entire game. Then Saugus' first player went down for their chance and Wilmington's keeper Joe Bamberg came up with the big save for one of his ten saves of the afternoon.

Then the controversity begun. Dan King, of Wilmington went down on Soroko, who then was going down to what appeared to be blocking the oncoming shot. King then went to the side of Soroko and the goalie then grabbed King's ankle which forced King outside and around Soroko to score the goal. The referees disallowed the goal saying that King changed directions which he cannot do. However, the referee did not see King's ankle being grabbed.

Saugus then scored on their next penalty shot before both goalies came away with saves on the next opponent respectively for Saugus to come out on top 2-1 to face Reading in the second round of state tournament play.

"I don't fault the referees [for King's goal being called back], but I thought the yellow card given to Andy [Armata] was a questionable call," said head coach Dick Scanlon.

In the first half of the game Armata was given a yellow card after he coincidentally shot the ball towards the Saugus net at the sound of a whistle. The whistle was not heard from the sidelines and Soroko knew that Armata didn't do it on purpose as both of them shook hands, yet Armata still got his first warning.

Then in the second half, Armata was called for being off sides. He then was given his second yellow card which meant he was out of the remainder of the game for "looking at the referee funny."

Now that meant Wilmington was without their best player and was a man short for the rest of the game including the overtime periods. Wilmington was already short on players with Fullback Steve Kosmidis out with a broken knuckle and Dave DeSantis who was still out with Mono.

Throughout the entire game, both teams had plenty of scoring opportunities. Both teams just couldn't put the game away even though Wilmington dominated from the start to the finish.

In the first half, Armata, Fred Burke, Paul Heigham, Doug Olander and Greg Peters all had great opportunities to score, but the ball was either saved or went just too high or too wide.

Meanwhile, Bamberg was again playing his usual aggressive style. He came out of his net twice to grab the ball with oncoming players coming at him - and he also made one spectacular diving tip save on a bullet shot going to his right.

In the second half, Pat Cahill just missed the net on one of his shots, while Dan King had two solid opportunities, with one being a nice save and the other sailing inches over the net.

Then Armata received his second yellow card forcing him out of the game, so Wilmington had to find a way to step up their play with only nine (not including the goalie) players on the field.

Jeremy Antanuk's shot was too high, while Soroko made a couple of nice saves on a few corner kicks to keep the game scoreless.

Wilmington's Doug Olander is trying to put his moves past the Saugus defender in last Friday's five overtime shoot-out thriller in which Wilmington lost 2-1.

Moreover on a throw-in by Paul Heigham, Soroko made a great tip save and then a follow up save on Paul Bruno's shot to preserve the double shut out bid. That forced the game into overtime - where the result is already known.

Even though they had their troubles putting the ball into the net, may of Wilmington's players contributed into the dominative play. Fullbacks Paul Bruno and Fred Burke played exceptionally well without much time to rest. Midfielders Doug Olander and Paul Heigham had very good game as did forward Pat Cahill.

The play was down in Saugus' end more than the majority of the game. Wilmington dominated and it showed - from scoring opportunities to the shortened yet very impressive defense, the Wildcats just couldn't score. And a 2-1 loss in five overtimes is not a bad way to end a season from a team who was never of supposed to be anywhere near the state tournament.

Wilmington Adult Hockey

Thursday night Golden State overwhelmed the Blueliners with a 10-6 victory. High scorer for this game was Kenny DeMaggio with three goals and two assists.

Thursday's second game saw the Icehogs return to their old ways by losing 4-2 to the White Team. High scorer in this contest was Joe Fazio who led the team with heads up play.

Friday night's games had Team Eight against the Outlaws with the Outlaws squeaking out a4-2 victory. In the next couple of weeks the Outlaws will start to play the better half of the league and in one or two of these games, will most definitely lose.

Friday's last game had the chiefs beating the Red Team 4-2 with high scorer Harry Rosa.

Salem unity a little too much

First Inning

Yep, the old chatter box is back. Did anyone see Sports Final on Sunday night? What a joke?

First in case you are not aware at Salem High School, the teachers went on strike. Several of their teachers are high school coaches, including the football and soccer coach.

The football team was undefeated going into their huge game on Saturday against Swampscott. Both teams were undefeated, even though the game was a huge sum in the the game, and that they were going to let two former players coach the team.

Perrone said that his union wanted him to coach the game, and that his fellow teachers gave the kids ribbons and were cheering them on. Great - nothing wrong with that.

But did you see the start of the show. The team huddled up, some in tears that "some politicians had nothing better to do than pick on some coaches," but Perrone's boss had asked him not to coach the game.

mentioning about my hockey team? Last week, I was unable to prin the Squirt C's awesome game when they were down 5-3 with under five minutes left and came back to tie the game - that was without pulling the goalie Paul Sferrezza - due to space. So this week I will.

Thsi game was a great back and forth battle where Tommy Doyle and Chris Capozzi scored two goals each. Steven O'Dea scored the other looking like Bobby Orr on an end to end rush which of course school's pocket. I would like to know why the game was played in the first place?

Anyway, the game was played and Bob Lobel had the Salem coach Ken Perrone on his show with Joe Fitzgerald, a Boston Herald writer, who wrote two articles about the situation.

Fitzgerald's opinion was that Perrone was wrong and he was setting an example that sports comes before education and it should be the other way around. He is 100 % right. On the other hand, Perrone claims that the school board asked him and his assistants not to coach

I congratulate Perrone and the team on a great season, but a little much don't you think? To paraphrase Dan Shaughnessy "Life goes on."

Perrone went against that wish and went on to coach. That's fine - he thought he was doing the right thing. But, I have two questions - wasn't the coaches holding hands going into the game a little much? Do you think he would of coached the team if they were 4-4 or even 5-3 and no where near a chance for a superbowl title? I don't think so.

Second Inning

What's a chatter-box, without me ended with a spectacular move around the goalie.

The whole team played great. Doyle, Capozzi, O'Dea along with Tim Rose, Tom Anderson, Steve Pellerin, Mike Senarian, Eric Jacobs, Jon Roman, Gary Mounsey, Brian Gillespie, T.J. Duggan and of course, Paul Sferrezza who came up very big in the closing minutes to help preserve the tie in the first regular season game.

Under-14 finishes on upbeat note

Wilmington under 14 boys I soccer team recently finished their fall season with an impressive victory over North Reading and tough fought tie with second place Billerica.

Wilmington was led by the two goal explosion of goalie turned forward T.J. Flynn and the two goal performance of wing Peter Grasso.

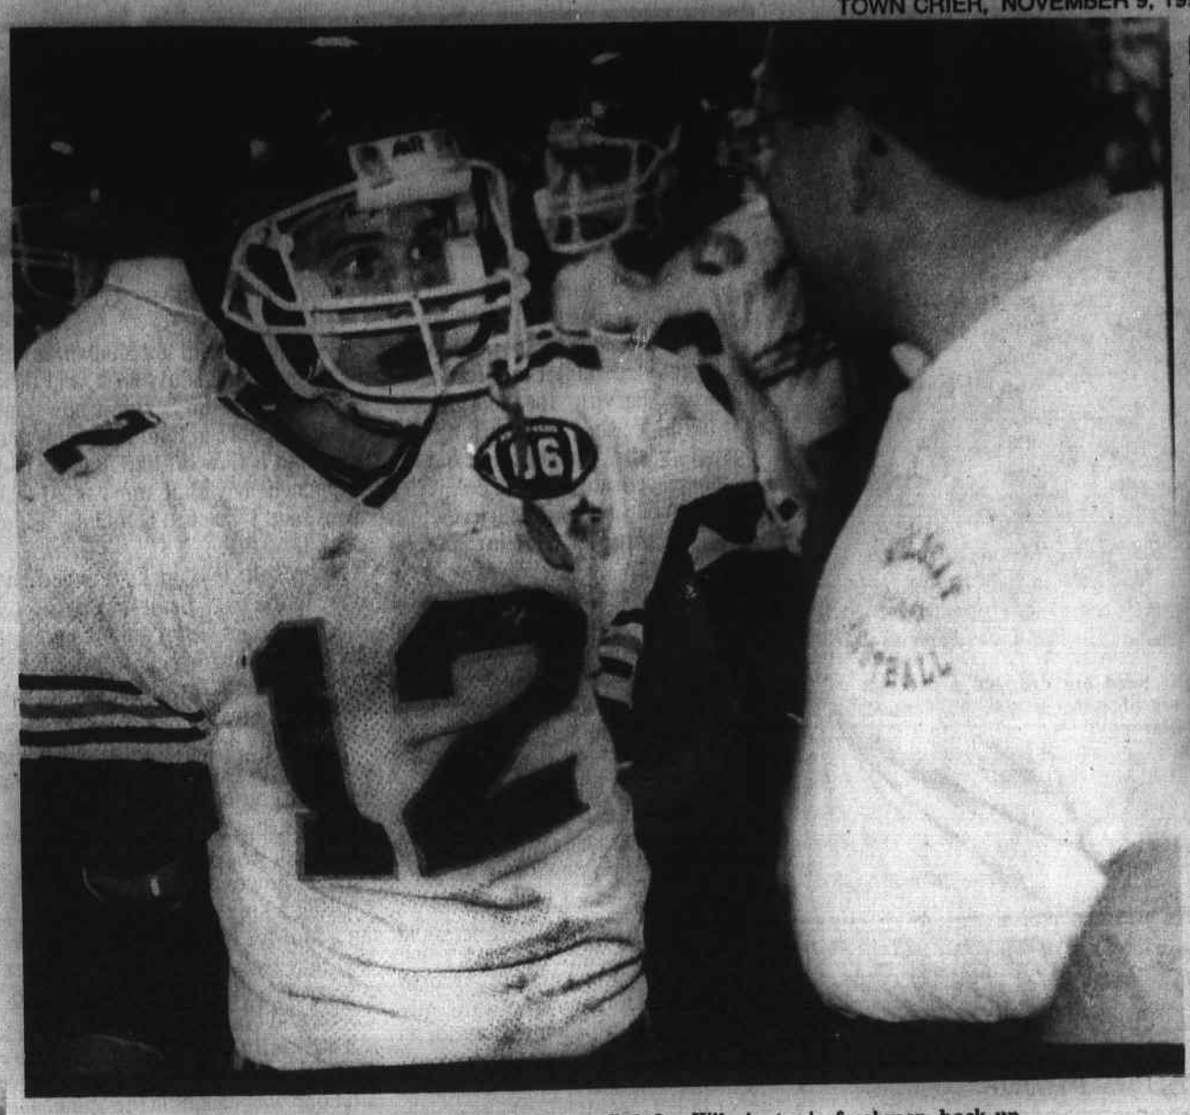

Flynn scored his first goal from a nice feed from Dan Sweet and put in his second from a goal mouth scramble with only 15 minutes gone in the first half. Playing with the early lead Wilmington dominated the rest of the game.

Late in the first half Dennis Ingram took a Darren Arciero lead pass and broke in along on the North Reading goalie and blasted his second goal of the season for a three goal lead. From this point it as the Peter Grasso show as he connected twice from pretty passes from Dennis Ingram and Peter Bamberg to boost the score to 5-2 Wilmington.

Playing well for Wilmington was Justin Vallas, backup goalie making his first start, John Betts, Danny Keating and Sean Cahill. In the Billerica game Wilmington opened the scoring with a nice long blast from Justin Vallas and held off Billerica until late in the second when they finally broke through goalie T.J. Flynn and tied the game 1-1. Against tough Billerica, Matt Senesi, Kevin Riley, Matt Kacamburas and Jimmy Rourke had strong games.

The boys also played tough games against Woburn, 2-1 and Concord 2-0,coming up short tin both games, but putting in good efforts. Against Woburn Josh Michaud scored from 30 yards out and but for a lousy handball call for a penalty shot, Wilmington would have had another tie.

Against Woburn and Concord, Ryan Covino, Dennis Ingram and T.J. Flynn in net turned in top performances. The team finished 3-4-1 and looks forward to the spring Middlesex Soccer season.

Brady makes 25 saves in big victory

Wilmington 8 Seacoast 1

On Sunday, Nov. 6, the Wilmington Squirt A Hockey Team surprised a tough Seacoast club by a 8-1 score.

The Wildcat effort was led by goalie Justin Brady, who turned away 25 Seacoast shots and a swarming defense of Brian Martiniello, Brian Corcoran, Matt Porter, Brian Aldrich, Greg Buck and defenseman du jour Joe Luciano.

Wilmington led by a pair after the first period on goals by Jack Webb and Brian Velardo. Webb scored on an assist from linemate Pat Cushing while Velardo's tally came on a feed from winger Danny Liberty.

In the second period, the Wildcats extended their lead to 3-0 as Webb scored his second goal of the day, unassisted at 10:33.

Seacoast then rallied for their only goal of the day as Plummer caught a Wilmington line change to come in alone on Brady. Brady made the initial stop, but Plummer tucked the rebound past him to make it 3-1.

Wilmington put the game on ice with two more goals before the end of the period. Ryan Layton scored on a breakaway that ended with a Seacoast roughing penalty. Churchill DiDomenico added another goal on the resulting power play, assisted by Cushing and it was 5-1 Wildcats.

In the third period, Brady shutout Seacoast with some spectacular saves while the Wildcats made the most of their chances. Pat Cushing added a pair of goals only 33 seconds apart. Cushing's first goal was unassisted as he beat the Seacoast goalie on a breakaway. The second was scored in a scramble in front of the net assisted by Webb.

Brian Velardo closed out the scoring with his second of the day assisted by Ryan Higgins to make the final of 8-1 Wilmington.

Center Casey Duggan and winger David Velardo played well for the Wildcats, but wee left off the score sheet. Their solid checking and positional play frustrated the Seacoast team all morning. Together, they drew several Seacoast penalties and setup Wildcat breakouts leading to Wildcat scoring opportunities.

Use the insurance shot

by Bill Conlon

Enlightened hunters prefer to use the word "harvest" for their gains in the field. Yeah, I know killing also describes what happens, but harvest is more accurate. We're collecting the fruits of a renewable harvest!

Ah, but actual "collecting" can be difficult!

When hunting small game, a solid hit is pretty obvious. A small cloud of feathers says that you connected, and the bird won't go far with a few lead pellets (steel for waterfowl) in its gizzard. With the least bit of luck you'll find the bird directly beneath the snowfall of feathers.

Unfortunately, a lot of game is lost every year because of grazing hits. Wounding an animal is a sin, but it happens.

As a kid, I once got awfully lucky and dropped TWO ducks with one round from my scattergun. One of the ducks landed on shore, and I saw the bird crawling (tactical blunder!) and the other landed in the water.

The duck that landed on shore was never found. Somehow the bird was able to crawl under the weeds and die, and no amount of poking and prodding turned up so much as one feather. Damn. I should have given that quacker another dose when I saw it crawling off. Damn.

The second duck was lying in the water, with its head in the drink. No problem there, so I took my boots off and rolled up my pants legs, laid the shotgun down (tactical blunder #2) and waded out in the cold swamp water to collect my prize.

As I approached, the duck lifted its head, gave me a dirty look, and flew off. I'll never understand how that duck was able to hold its breath that long, but it flew off like nothing had happened. My shotgun was 20 feet away, and I watched helplessly as the duck flew off.

Net result: two ducks downed but none in the bag. I still feel awful.

A few years later I nailed a goose, and as the bird was falling I gave it another round, for insurance. Chalk that up as a lesson learned.

Mammals are a bit more difficult. A bunny or squirrel won't get very far after getting bowled over from a solid hit, but they will disappear if wounded. Use that second shot.

Deer, however, are more difficult. Getting a single shot at a deer takes an awful lot of luck and hard work, and they usually won't stand still for a second round. Make that first shot count, and count big.

Thankfully, both of the deer I've taken never took another step. The first one was caught in the spine, at a bouncing trot, immobilizing it for the finishing shot, while the second one never had a clue what hit it.

There is a problem in bowhunting, however. A razor-sharp broadhead causes severe internal bleeding with the most solid of hits, but rarely will the impact of an arrow knock down a deer. A hit in the pump, or a lung puncture or a liver sliced in half, is indeed fatal to the deer but usually not instantly. An arrow-struck deer virtually always strolls or bounds off after the sting, and death comes later, when the loss of blood reaches critical levels.

That means all bowhunters must know an ancient skill: tracking.

First rule of thumb: sit and wait. Let the deer stroll away, and don't move or make any noise. Your voice may panic the deer and send it running an hundred yards or so. Relax. Once the loss of blood gets severe, the deer will get lightheaded and lie down. With luck, it will lie down soon and never get up. (With perfect luck it will lie down in the bed of the truck. Nah!)

Deer will often head downhill, and toward water, if that helps. Keep waiting until it no longer amuses you. Let's say a half hour, or more. No rush. You've got more time than the deer does.

Second rule of thumb: find your arrow. If it lodged you would have seen it, but often the arrow will pass clean through. You want to see red, or frothy red from a lung hit, but you'd rather not find green-yellow with a foul smell on the arrow, which means a stomach hit. You can learn much from your arrow.

Third rule of thumb: time to take a hike. Red sprinkles on snow is ideal, but you might have to follow a trail of droplets on leaves and branches. Mark the spot where the trail began (surveyor's tape is good), and away you go. Hopefully you'll find the deer lying down within a few dozen yards. If it jumps up and runs, sit back down again and keep waiting.

You should have a pretty fair idea how solidly your arrow hit based on the amount of blood found. It's my understanding that a minor hit by an arrow will heal cleanly, but a pint or two is major, so keep tracking. If the trail is lost, mark the last spot and go back in the morning, with helpers.

In one of the bowhunting mags, I once saw an advertisement that I felt was a bit gross. Accurate, but gross. The bottom edge of two pages had red splattered all the way across, on a field of white. Turn the page and the red splatters continued, up to the words "Happy Trails to You" and an ad for an archery manufacturer.

Wasting your harvest gains is a sin. Bring home the meat.

--- Tackle Box ---

Bow season is now underway in Massachusetts, and continues until November 26. Good luck and good hunting, and please be careful!

I met a gentleman in the town hall in Tewksbury this week, buying his Primitive Weapons stamp, and he'll be filling his deer tag soon, I'll bet. He said he set up a "string timer" in a spot in Billerica, and the device has registered the passage of an animal past that location, five days out of seven, between 4:15 and 4:20 p.m. String timers, and devices like them, record the time of day when something trips the trigger wire. Clever items, those!

Wilmington Youth Soccer enjoys another fine season

Soccer update

Wilmington Youth Soccer concluded its fall 1994 in town season with its awards presentation. All players received picture plaques with engraved name plates. Well done, everyone! WYSA would like to thank all the coaches, assistant coaches, concession workers and all other volunteers who helped to make this season so successful.

Boys grade one
Power & Glory vs. Hulkamaniacs

Power & Glory forward Steve Stokes fired in a great goal. Ken Aruda and Matthew Faup played an awesome all around game, resulting in a 1-1 tie. Tony Karalekas turned in a great field game and Stephen Potcner blasted in the goal for the Hulkamaniacs.

Super defense by Albert Fiorenza and tight netminding by Brendan Gibson, Brian Wilson and Jonathan Cullen held on to the tie.

Legion of Doom vs Macho Men

Great goaltending by Legion of Doom keepers William Sampson and Bryan Raposa, and excellent field play by Justin Fleckand. Zach Mayo wrapped up the defense. Dana Zanni took advantage of fine team play to pop in three goals.

Macho Men forwards Matthew Murphy and Sam Oglesby set up many scoring opportunities. Aldo Caira and Corey Sheehan anchored the "D" with Chris Crosby and Zach Michaud doing a super job in net.

Bushwackers vs Natural Disasters

Bushwacker Jeff Youngclaus capped the season with a double score while Nick Gustin and David Maison provided awesome rushing. Nick and Michael Fogarty were superb as keepers. The Natural Disasters played an excellent game of team soccer.

Boys grade two
Buckeyes vs Mountaineers

Sean Wilson and Pat Contrada each booted home a goal for the Buckeyes. Chris Murray, Joe Morello, Bill Shultes and John Menezes covered the field with skill and hustle.

The Mountaineers' offense was led by the rushing of Tim Ryan and Mike Flaherty, resulting in Mike LeBreque's fantastic goal. Brian Frongillo was unbeatable on defense and Misha Glazomitsky played well all around. Keeper Mike Thibault was outstanding.

Runnin' Rebels vs Eagles

Three first half goals by Ray Bennett, Mark Giordano and Derek Concannon got the Rebels off and running. Outstanding offensive pressure was applied by Kyle Browne, Mike Hackett, Mike St. Aubin, Kevin Cole and Bobby Crowe. Great goaltending by Ray and Mike Hackett kept the opponents off balance. Mike Adams, Mike Frissore, Chris Pereira and Tom Blaisdell played well at both ends.

Eagles' forward Brian Little scored in this exceptional game. John Bell, Dustin Cole, Tony Hogan, Richie Cummings, Mike Damplo, John DiPaulo, Joey Mayo, Louis Insalaco, Danny Reed, Kurt Remick and Danny Tanzella are to be congratulated on a fine game and terrific season.

Show #35

*Host Alan Langer talks with a designer whose company specializes in creating accessible office spaces tailored to individual disabilities as well as to accessibility requirements. We learn how workplaces have been modified attractively to the benefit of various business and their employees.

*Alan welcomes the executive director of the Massachusetts Architectural Access Board, who updates us on the work of their office since the passage of the Americans with Disabilities Act. Useful reference numbers are given for persons with access complaints or seeking technical assistance in effecting compliance.

*A representative of a firm which has developed special reading equipment for persons with low vision demonstrates the latest devices to enable those persons to improve their reading capability with new print-enlarging machines.

*A couple describes for Alan the dramatic story of the husband who was suddenly paralyzed and who has recovered against all odds. The couple's views on the experience and how it affected their views on access are thought-provoking for all RWE! viewers.

Continental Cable's "Suite Up" educational contest

Continental Cablevision has announced the finalists among local fourth and fifth grade students for its "Suite Up for the Space Shuttle" educational contest.

Over 80 students from Burlington, Wilmington and Woburn participated in this science contest. Curriculum materials were designed by U.S. Space Camp for Continental and The Discovery Channel.

Burlington fifth graders Nicole Wei, John Martin, Danielle Dignan, Ricky Adams and Joseph Marino, along with their Memorial School teacher Fred Deignan, were judged the best out of 20 entries for their design and construction of a model space suit meant to be used on a mission to Pluto.

Their entry now goes on to a national judging process in which a grand prize panel will choose the five best space suit designs. The five winning teams of students and teachers will go on a five day,all expense paid educational space mission at NASA - endorsed U.S. Space Camp in Huntsville, Alabama, courtesy of Continental Cablevision and The Discovery Channel.

Coming in second place were Wilmington Shawsheen Elementary fifth graders Kristen Pizzotti, Jackie Welch, Kelly Torpey, Kerri Moynihan and their teacher Robert Boucher.

In third place, also from Shawsheen Elementary were Pranav Vaidya, David Shukis, Robert Schell, Matthew Bayles and their fifth grade teacher Robert Boucher.

In fourth place, from Burlington Memorial School fifth grade were Victoria Giangreco, Nicole LaBombard, Lauren Massimilla, Antonia Melas and their teacher Judy Mack.

In fifth place, again from Burlington Memorial School fifth grade were Kim Brennan, Kristin Manos, Nathaniel Brown, Anne Doan, Jaclyn Vigneau and their teacher Fred Deignan.

Special recognition was earned by Patricia Eastman's fourth grade class at the Hurld Elementary School in Woburn and Julia Campagne's fourth grade class at Wildwood Elementary, in Burlington.

"We are very proud of these students for the scientific learning, imagination and teamwork they put into designing their space suits," said Catherine Maloney, manager of Government Relations and Community Affairs for Continental Cablevision. "We are equally grateful to their teachers for their efforts to make "Suit Up for the Space Shuttle" the fun and exciting learning adventure we envisioned. If together we have sparked the interest of just a handful of young people in a deeper study of science, then we and The Discovery Channel can say - Mission Accomplished!"

The contest was timed to coincide with the November 13 premier of "The Space Shuttle," The Discovery Channel's documentary special that will give the students who have gained an interest in space science an in-depth insight into the people who devote their lives to the U.S. space program.

The fourth and fifth grade teams in the contest designed and built models of space suits fit for a planet of their choice as part of a curriculum developed specifically for the "Suit Up for the Space Shuttle" contest by U.S. Space Camp educators. The students' preparation involved learning about conditions on the solar system's planets, survival in space and the tasks involved in space exploration.

Local judges included Bill Desrochers, Frank Porter and Bob Carvutto of Raytheon Corporation; Dr. Ray Macedonia from Textron Defense Systems; Charles Ryan, managing editor of the Daily Times Chronicle and Mike Leone, Continental Cablevision's New England manager for Government Relations and Public Affairs.

The national grand prize judging panel includes space suit designers and engineers from Hamilton Standard Space Systems International, Inc., manufacturer of the current NASA space suit, educators and cable industry professionals.

Serving as the advisory board for the "Suit Up for the Space Shuttle" contest are Dr. Buzz Aldrin, Apollo Astronaut; Dr. Deborah Barnhart, Vice President of Hamilton Standard Space Systems International, Inc.; Dr. Tommie R. Blackwell, Director of Education, U.S. Space & Rocket Center; Amos B. Hostetter, Chairman and CEO, Continental Cablevision, Inc.; and John S. Hendricks, CEO, Discovery Communications Inc. and recipient of the NEA Friend of Education Award.

Continental Cablevision, the largest cable operator in New England, serves 235,000 customers in the Metro-Boston market. Each month, Continental provides free basic cable service and more than 525 hours of commercial free educational programming to local schools as part of its "Cable in the Classroom" community outreach effort.

The Discovery Channel's Assignment Discovery airs at 9 a.m. Monday through Friday. Each weekday hour provides two commercial free documentaries suitable for classroom use, focused on one of five different curriculum areas: Monday-Science and Technology; Tuesday, social studies/ history; Wednesday, natural science; Thursday, arts and humanities; Friday, contemporary issues.

FRIENDS FOREVER - Atop Mt. Monadnock in New Hampshire, these youngsters from Northern Ireland take a break from their hike. The kids - half Catholic, half Protestant - are trying to break through societal differences to improve the quaility of life back home.

"Friends Forever"

By KEN MAGUIRE

Back in their villages located 35 miles from Belfast, Northern Ireland, diversity is not high on the educational priority list for students such as Jonathan Caldwell and Enda Maguire.

It's not by their choice, however. Protestants and Catholics, such as Jonathan and Enda, respectively, are segregated in Northern Ireland schools. Despite living just five miles apart, they were strangers until three weeks ago.

Jonathan, Enda and 10 other kids from Northern Ireland were in the States as part of the "Friends Forever" program. If they are to remain friends, they will have to put aside societal differences which have been the root of "the Troubles" between their peoples for the past 25 years.

Their time spent here was designed to lay seeds of friendship, which will hopefully be cultivated back home. The idea was to bring over the kids - half Catholic, half Protestant - and throw them into the strange, huge land known as America.

Before they know it, they're no longer Catholic or Protestant - they're survivalists depending upon each other, regardless of religion. Part of the American experience included a trip to Winchester High School, to see what classroom life is like over here.

"It was a really nice experience," said Becky Jacques, advisor to the Multi-Cultural Issues Group at Winchester High. "Looking at different ways of life and accepting diversity is important in our lives."

The Irish kids paired up with Winchester high students and attended classes. Seeing kids from all sorts of ethnic and religious backgrounds was an eye-opener for the visitors from "the North."

"They were energetic and open about how different things are here," said Jacques. "It was a unique experience. It's kind of exciting to be a part of it."

The kids, Irish and American, had fun with their language variations.

"Everyone thinks we speak the same language," Jacques explained. "We both speak English, but the kids were the first to note that there are differences in our words."

A sweater, for instance, is a "jumper" in Ireland. Don't go looking for a "trash" can if you ever visit Ireland. The proper term is "rubbish." And a "roundabout" is their translation of a rotary that Americans twirl through.

"Everyone expresses their opinions here," said Jonathan. "It's great to hear that."

Tom Arthur, a Belfast-born member of the Cambridge Rotary Club, which sponsored the Friends Forever trip, said, "Everything about this country is so much bigger than where they're from. Because of that, they gravitated toward each other. They bonded very well."

The real test, however, is how their friendships will survive back in Northern Ireland.

"It will be really different when we go back," said Enda, the Catholic youth, 15, who lives in the all-Catholic village of Toomebridge. Just down the road is Jonathan, 16, and his Protestant family. Their classmates will be in for a surprise when the lads meet up on the street someday and exchange a handshake instead of an insult.

Friends Forever is an American organization founded in 1986. The first-ever Friends trip was coordinated between the YMCA in Carrickfergus,

Road race in Tewksbury

"Run Your Turkey Off"

The 14th Annual pre-Thanksgiving Tewksbury Physical Therapy "Run Your Turkey Off" 15K, 5K and Kid's Road Race is scheduled for Sunday November 13th at 11 a.m., 10 a.m. and 9:30 a.m., respectively, at Tewksbury Memorial High School. The race features frozen turkeys as prizes, and the entry fee includes the best post-race refreshment spreads in the area.

Named one of the top races of New England by New England Runner, the event has attracted over 700 participants in recent years.

"We focus on making it an enjoyable time for each and every participant, and everyone who crosses the finish line will feel like the winner," said Dave Tyler, Race Director. In addition, there will be many raffle prizes, and age group awards, free post race sports massages, as well as plenty of refreshments which include juice, bagels, cookies and hot Campbell's soup.

The race is hosted by the "Greater Lowell Road Runners" Club and sponsored by Lou Coiro of Tewksbury Physical Therapy. It is a charity event to raise funds for the Open Pantry of Greater Lowell, during Lowell's Hunger & Homeless Week with several other events planned around the area.

Participants are asked to bring food donations, which entitles them to entry in a special raffle of some great prizes.

Entry forms can be obtained by calling (508) 851-4088. Pre-entry fee is only $10 for the 15K or 5K and $7 for the Kid's K, which includes a free six color collectable race T-shirt.

ANTHONY MANCONI

Many of you, I am sure, are familiar with the "natural wit" and sense of humor of the Irish. Some of whom I had the great pleasure of knowing, having felt the sting of some of their barbs, are Councilor Albert "Dapper" O'Neil, Robert Butler of Malden, my late Uncle John Shea of North Reading, Phil Maguire of Stoneham, and, believe it or not, the master of them all, Mayor and Governor James Michael Curley.

A couple of examples - when Judge Daley of the Municipal Court died, a lawyer who was an eager beaver legal beagle called Governor Curley and demanded that he take Judge Daley's place. Governor Curley replied, "Certainly, I'll call O'Connor, the undertaker, right away and tell him of your wish." - When James Michael Curley was Mayor of Boston (according to John Cremens, Major General of the 'Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company) the Ancient and Honorable refused to admit Mayor Curley as an ex-officio member. As a 'parting shot' Mayor Curley called them "Invincible in peace, invisible in war."

Folks, because my dear late mother was Irish and my late father was Italian, my Aunt Nora calls me a "half-wit."... George Gould found out that after taking a certain elixir, his hearing showed a remarkable improvement. George wrote a letter to the pharmaceutical company saying, "Sirs, after taking your product for two weeks, I heard from my brother in California."... Tony Stack got on a drugstore scale and a little card came out saying, "Your are tall, dark and handsome." The

About The Towns
by Phyllis Nissen

Wilmington takes the high road

... but forget the white gloves

Organized by Selectman Gerald Duggan and based on the state's adopt-a-highway plan, Wilmington recently planned its own adopt-a-road program, complete with trash bags and gloves donated by the town to members of civic groups, town organizations and neighborhoods who volunteered to pitch in for a cleaner Wilmington.

Super citizens and specific targets included: senior citizens slated to tackle the Swain School parking lot, School Street and Drury Lane out to Glen road; the Wilmington Garden Club planning to hit both sides of the Wilmington Center-Route 62 bridge area; Kiwanis taking on six town entry points - both ends of Routes 62, 129 and 38; the League of Women Voters on Adams St. from Church St. to Parker St.; Aldrich Rd. resident Howie Lefaver rallying neighbors for a garbage detail; Rotary walking on the Wildwood side; and the DPW, enlisted to pick up all bags left by the roadside after the clean-up.

Fair weather sets in

Handcrafted holiday decorations, centerpieces, wreaths, wall hangings, ornaments, hats, mittens, scarves, and everything you would ever want to give as gifts will be available on Saturday, November 19th at the annual senior's Christmas fair in Woburn.

Boutique, white elephant, plant, and book tables are part of the package as well as lunch, goodies, and raffles for folks of every age.

Sponsored by the Woburn Council of Social Concern, the fair will take place from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Veteran's Memorial Senior Center, 144 School St.

Plan to do lunch and dessert.

Reading Selectmen have lots to do

The Reading Selectmen have voted unanimously not to support three Town Meeting articles proposing to increase frontage and minimum buildable house lot sizes.

The current minimum buildable lot size in Reading is 10,000 square feet with 80-foot frontage. The articles proposed an increase to 15,000 square feet and 100 feet of frontage.

The Board unanimously approved the Parker Middle School renovation project, now estimated at about $14 million.

McDonald's gets a break in Woburn

After changes to the original plan presented by franchise owner Larry Kimmelman, the Woburn City Council has approved the addition of a play area to the Cambridge St. McDonald's.

The changes, made at the Planning Board's request, include the addition of an emergency exit, and the extension of a fence along one side of the play area so children will not slip off the sidewalk leading to the site, into the parking lot.

Lighting in the area will be shut off after 8 p.m. when the playhouse is closed and a hostess will be on duty when the play area is open, with the only access to the site through the restaurant. The new play area replaces three parking spaces.

According to Attorney Joseph R. Tarby in the "Daily Times Chronicle," some people in Reading like the new play area there and others do not. He sees construction of the area as "an accommodation, not there to attract new business."

The Woburn Planning Board had originally voted 4-1 in favor of the area, the one unfavorable vote based on a concern about children breathing the emissions from waiting traffic at the busy intersection but Tarby explained, according to the Woburn edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle," that the site is set back from the road and children will not be spending excessive time at the restaurant.

"About The Towns" covers recent events in the 13-town Middlesex East area. Because Middlesex East deadlines are early, please check the front sections of this paper for up-to-date information about your city or town. We also welcome original material - please send it to Phyllis Nissen, "About The Towns," Middlesex East Supplement, Box 240, Reading, MA 01867.

Northern Ireland and the YMCA in Portsmouth, New Hampshire.

The kids are selected from a promising pool of teens in Northern Ireland. Good personalities and potential leadership abilities are sought by the screening panels. By design, the kids do not know each other before departing for the States.

Instead of staying overnight with host American families, the kids slept in groups at the Cambridge YMCA and at a church. Keeping them together day and night was part of the Friends Forever "life raft" principle. It taught them to trust each other. A highlight was spending a weekend camping in New Hampshire and climbing Mt. Monadnock.

"There's always uneasiness at the start," said chaperone Eamonn Fleming, 24. "It broke down very quickly. Most of them have boyfriend-girlfriend problems, but certainly nothing of the religious nature."

Fleming, who is Catholic, is a community worker in his hometown of Portadown. He said there is much more work to be done after the trip. "This is just the start of the process. We'll be working together when we get back home. There's quite high expectations of us and them."

Kathryn Wallace, 16, hopes her experiences in America pay off when she coordinates a "cross community" project in Portadown. Her goal will be to bring fellow Protestant youngsters to Catholic youth centers for informational meetings.

While here, Kathryn became good friends with Michelle Martin, a 16-year-old Belfast native. Michelle is Catholic but that was of little consequence to their relationship. "There's not any difference at all between us," said Michelle.

A troubled area yes, but a war zone Northern Ireland is not.

"People think when you walk down the street you're going to get shot," said Michelle. "You'd be afraid to walk in some Protestant areas, but I feel safe enough."

The misperception of violence is perhaps the one thing both Protestants and Catholics have most in common. Most of the kids in the Friends Forever program have not witnesses any violence.

They are quick to point out that some of Ireland's most beautiful areas are in the North. Outside of Ireland, places such as the Seven Glens, the Giant's Causeway and the Antrim coast are not nearly as well known as Belfast and Derry, two hot spots for bombing, at least before the cease-fire.

And what is unthinkable to one culture is commonplace in another.

Chaperone Sarah Gaston, 25, reflected on the group's trip to a local courthouse, where they watched the prosecution of a 35-year-old man charged with rape.

"That rarely happens at home," Gaston said of the actual offense of rape. "If it does happen, there's an uproar." She was surprised to learn that rape and similar offenses are standard fare here. "It's really sad."

Gaston hopes Northern Ireland is finally coming to grips with its problems. Like so many others, she does not want to see the Troubles continue. "You can break the chain," she said. "That's what Friends Forever does."

Tom Arthur, one of the Rotary members who organized the trip, had the entire group sleep over at his Hingham home the night before leaving for Northern Ireland.

"It was like having 12 of my own children running around," he said. "In the morning when they were sleeping, you could see them all lying together. It was amazing. When they got up, they were exchanging addresses ... You get really close to them. I miss them."

Sal DiCarlo took a doctor's prescription to the pharmacy. Stephen Rappa of Melrose gave Sal a jar filled with 500 tablets. "Holy smokes," Sal exclaimed, "how many of those do I take a day?" "None," Stephen replied, "You are to empty the jar of tablets on the floor every morning and bend over and pick them up one at a time and put them back in the jar." After one week of that ritual, Sal didn't lose any weight but he did lose 45 tablets. Some of them rolled under the refrigerator, a few under the stove and the dog ate five of them.

FDA Inspector Paul Simon visited a sardine canning factory in Maine. He asked an employee why the heads of the sardines were cut off before being packed. She replied, "Oh, that's so they don't bite each other in the can!"

When I first met my wife Kathy I looked at her, she looked at me and it was love at first "fright." It was a Halloween party and neither one of us was wearing a mask.

Jimmy Durante bet on a horse at the Santa Anita Racetrack that lost in a photo finish. Retired Ace Jockey Bobby DiStasio said to Jimmy, "What your horse needed to win the race was an expert jockey like me." Jimmy smiled and said, "I know you were a great jockey Bobby but what that horse really needed to win that race was a nose like mine."

I remember my Aunt Nora shouting to her son, "Get up John or you'll be late for school." John shouted back, "I'm not going to school today or any other day, Ma." Aunt Nora went up stairs, pointed her finger at him and exclaimed, "Give me two reasons why you are not going to school." John replied, "The teachers hate me and all the kids hate me too. Now you give me two reasons why I should get up and go to school." "You are 39 years old and you're the principal!"

Louis B. Mayer, the Hollywood motion picture producer started in Chelsea in his family's junk business. You could truthfully say that "Mr. Mayer went from rags to riches." With his partner, Sam Goldwyn, he formed the Metro Goldwyn Mayer Company. Sam Goldwyn is remembered today for his famous sayings, known as "Goldwynisms" like "A verbal contract isn't worth the paper it's written on;" "Don't talk when I'm interrupting you;" and "Was that you who I heard was drowned last year or was it your brother?"

I know that Napoleon was not a politician because every picture or statue of him shows that he has his hand in his own pocket... Will Rogers said, "I'd rather be the one who bought the Brooklyn Bridge than the one who sold it"... Kathy just finished a three week's course in weight reduction. She lost 21 days!... Stephen of Angie's asked Kathy, "How do you want your pizza cut, six or eight pieces?" "You better make it six pieces. I'm on a strict reducing diet."

STUDY SKILLS COURSE AT MINUTEMAN TECH

HEALTHFUL AGING INFORMATION OFFERED

When is it "just getting older" and when is it something that can be prevented or controlled? On November 14, learn the normal signs of aging, and healthy options for the future, at a special "Healthful Aging" program offered by the Beth Israel Hospital and Children's Hospital Medical Care Center in Lexington.

Kathy Lyman, RN, Beth Israel Hospital geriatric nurse specialist at the Medical Care center, will discuss aging symptoms, preventive strategies, when it is time to see a doctor, and the differences between a general internist and a geriatric specialist. COLLEGE FUNDING SEMINAR BY SCOUTS

The Boston Minuteman Council, Boy Scouts of America, will present a workshop for Scouting families and the public on Tuesday, November 15, at 7:30 p.m. at the Boston Marriott Hotel in Newton.

The workshop is free and there is no obligation to the Boy Scouts of America or any of the presentation team. Workshop materials will be distributed to all participants to help them set their own plans. The workshop will take approximately 90 minutes. Light refreshments will be served.

Reservations are required and can be made by calling (617) 522-6899.

RETIREMENT PLANNING & ESTATE PROTECTION

"Our supporters and our community are our 'financial backbone.' Through their generosity, The American Lung Association of Middlesex County has been able to grow and continue to fulfill its mission," said an American Lung Association spokesman.

To return the favor, the Association is sponsoring an education (not fund-raising) workshop entitled "Retirement Planning & Estate Protection" to help people become better stewards of their assets. Also, there are techniques that some people can employ by using a charitable trust to create income and avoid estate and capital gains taxes on appreciated securities and real estate.

The program is being led by local lawyers and financial planners who are experts in retirement issues. It is geared to introduce people to basic concepts in retirement and estate planning such as: Protecting Assets From a Nursing Home Stay; Maximizing Retirement Income With Safety of Principle; The Use of Trusts For Any Size Estate; Avoiding Estate Taxes and Probate Fees.

Additionally, anyone attending will have the option of getting a free hour of consultation from the speakers at a later date. The program will be held in Stoneham on November 17 from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Stoneham Library. Please RSVP to 1-800-LUNG-USA.

School Notes by Phyllis Nissen

The 'Lou' math comes to Reading

If the shoe fits

"Mr. A gets a commission of 12.5 percent on all his products. If a pair of 'Air Adreani Math Teaching Shoes' sells for $18, how much money does Mr. A earn on each pair sold?"

The above example is only one of several problems in need of resolution at Reading's Coolidge Middle School. The principle in question is Lou Adreani, former Coolidge Assistant Principal - math teacher, who is filling in until a successor is chosen for Coolidge Principal Al Lahood, who is trying to retire and who, in fact, will be feted at the Colonial on November 17th.

All Lahood's former students, athletes and PAC members are invited to the festivities. Call Adreani for information on those. The Coolidge principal search has been momentarily derailed due to a serious lack of candidates - only 16 or so applied - so Adreani remains the interim in the interim.

In sum and summary, when Adreani looks back upon this year, he's sure to say the dividends were great. As for now, he's trying to fill more shoes than he bargained for, hotfooting it around in the process and eager to resume the search for a soulmate.

Burlington competes in Worcester

Worcester Polytechnic Institute recently hosted 83 high school teams from a four-state area at the seventh annual WPI Mathematics Competition at which Lexington High took top honors for the third year in a row.

Coached by Marlin Kagan, Burlington High, however, was well represented by Hetal Patel, Lan Mach, Kevin Slater, and Steven Maria, the top team scorer.

The test included two rounds of competition - individual and team; and questions based on the secondary math curriculum up to, but not including, calculus. Calculators were not allowed. While the students were competing, the team advisors attended a presentation on "Women in Math: High School Does Make a Difference."

Hands-on banking in Winchester

With approval from the School Committee, the financial planning education program piloted last year at Winchester's Muraco and Lynch elementary schools and recently adopted at the other three elementary schools will expand to McCall Middle School.

The program, according to the Winchester edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle," is a statewide effort to bring schools and communities closer together, while giving students a peek into the world of budget balancing.

On the local scene, Winchester Cooperative Bank and Winchester Savings Bank officials go to school to teach students the importance of saving money. Students make deposits into their individual accounts, return to the classroom and learn what happens to those deposits through curriculum add-ons developed in conjunction with the state treasurer's office.

"The purpose of the program is to give kids a foundation for economic literacy ... to get them thinking about finances, work, and income at an early age," says Muraco Principal Rosalie Tashjian in the "Daily Times Chronicle," speaking to the School Committee about the program's success in preparing students for the practical integration of those concepts in the real world.

Tewksbury in 'Jeopardy'

Math Challenge '94 attracted 340 fans to the University of Lowell for the second annual high school math competition sponsored by ULowell's Mathematics Department Outreach Committee.

Tewksbury High students Stephanie Lucas, Jessica Aliberti, Kristen Thompson, and Kristen Nelson composed one of the 16 four-member teams from area high schools who competed in the Jeopardy style competition which added up to annual renewable $1,000 scholarships for members of the three top scoring teams. Winning schools received plaques and all participants received a Math Challenge '94 T-shirt.

Do they need a "for boys only" math class in Tewksbury?

"The War"

by Rochelle Flynn

"The War" Starring Elijah Wood, Kevin Costner, Mare Winningham, Lexi Randall. Directed by John Avnet. Written by Kathy McWorter. Produced by Avnet, Jordan Kerner. Rated PG-13.

Just as the road to hell is often paved with good intentions, so is the road to bad cinema. "The War" is one of those films that is rife, nay riddled, with simple truths. Unfortunately, they are simplistically told.

Thirteen-year-old Elijah Wood leads a terrific cast of youngsters trying to make a movie out of a string of platitudes. Set in the summer of 1970, it has a great soundtrack going for it. But neither the immensely talented kids, nor the music, could have improved upon the preachy, disjointed script.

Though entitled "The War," the film is really about an important, life-altering summer in the lives of brother and sister Stu and Lidia Simmons (Wood and Lexi Randall). Their father, played by Kevin Costner, is a Vietnam Vet who finally admits his long absences have nothing to do with work searches. In reality, he's had to check himself into mental hospitals to try and recover from Post-Traumatic Stress Syndrome. Meanwhile, his children are fighting their own war, of sorts, with the mean tribe of a local junk yard owner.

In some sense, the movie is about parent/child communication. It also tells us that war is bad, racism is bad, and family values are good. We should be compassionate and always do our best. You pretty much feel like you've been sitting through a very long ad paid for by the Moral Majority by the time the final credits roll.

Director John Avnet ("Fried Green Tomatoes") presents a detailed, flavorful slice of the South 25 years ago. He also captures the frustration and heartache of dire poverty, but he and writer Kathy McWorter miss the big picture by aiming too high and trying to include too much. The narrative structure nearly collapses by the time the movie reaches its third ending.

Costner's performance is another disappointment, as earnestness just leaches out of him until he sounds like he's lecturing, not acting. Playing his wife is Mare Winningham, a fine actress, who is again shunted into another strong, but weepy, Mom role. Youngster Wood, with his natural ease, walks away with the show. Problem is, this isn't much of a show.

Katie Pesce to perform solo

The Harriet Hoctor Ballet School of Woburn announces that Katie Pesce, 14, of Burlington, has been chosen to dance four roles, including a solo role, in the Granite State Ballet Company's annual full-length production of "Nutcracker."

Miss Pesce, daughter of Kathy and Tony Pesce and a freshman at Austin Prep High School in Reading, auditioned for the Granite State Ballet Company in Nashua, NH on September 17th.

She was notified the next week that she had been selected to dance the solo pointe role of "Columbine" in Act I, and was also chosen to dance "Snowflakes," "Waltz of the Flowers" and "Angels."

Since receiving the call from the Granite State Ballet, her weekends have been spent in Nashua rehearsing her roles with company members for the annual holiday production.

Performances will be given on December 9, 10, and 11th at the Keefe Auditorium in Nashua, and on December 17 (two performances) and December 18th at the Groton Dunstable Performing Arts Center in Groton.

"This was Katie's first time auditioning for the Granite State Ballet Company's Nutcracker, and we are very happy for her and proud that she was chosen for a solo role on pointe and three other pointe roles," said Mary Vasel, Director of the Harriet Hoctor Ballet School with whom Miss Pesce has studied ballet and pointe under both privately and in class for the past four years.

"DANCE, BALLERINA, DANCE"...Katie Pesce, 14, strikes a graceful pose during a demonstration at the Harriet Hoctor Ballet School. She will dance a solo role and three other roles with the Granite State Ballet Company's annual production of "Nutcracker."

Cloggers to hold all day Turkey Trot

The Yankee Doodle Cloggers will be hosting a Turkey Trot clogging workshop from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. on November 12 at Memorial Hall on Main Street in Melrose. Clog dancers from all over the Northeast are expected to attend.

Scotty Bilz, a nationally known clogging instructor from Georgia, will be teaching a variety of dance routines from easy intermediate through advanced levels. Scotty will be assisted by John Quesenberry, a member of the yankee Doodle Cloggers and a former Maryland State Clogging Champion.

Non-cloggers are encouraged to drop in at any time during the day to watch the fun. There is no charge for spectators.

The Yankee Doodle Cloggers, based in North Reading, have approximately 50 members ranging in age from 7 to 70. Beginner clogging classes are offered in January and intermediate/advanced clogging is taught through the year.

The group performs publicly for many organizations and special events. They have appeared on Evening Magazine; danced at the rededication of the Statue of Liberty; participated in the recent 350th anniversary celebrations in Reading and Wakefield; perform annually at the Bolton and Topsfield Fairs and dance in numerous other parades and community festivals in the area.

The next scheduled public performance will be the Santa Claus Parade on December 4th in Merrimack.

60TH ANNIVERSARY FOR COOMBS FURNITURE

Coombs Furniture country barn showrooms, now celebrating 60 continuous years in business, has been a favorite destination for generations of families intent in finding that "just right" piece of furniture or special accessory for their home. This is the saga of a family enterprise that continues to thrive through the economic ups and downs of six decades

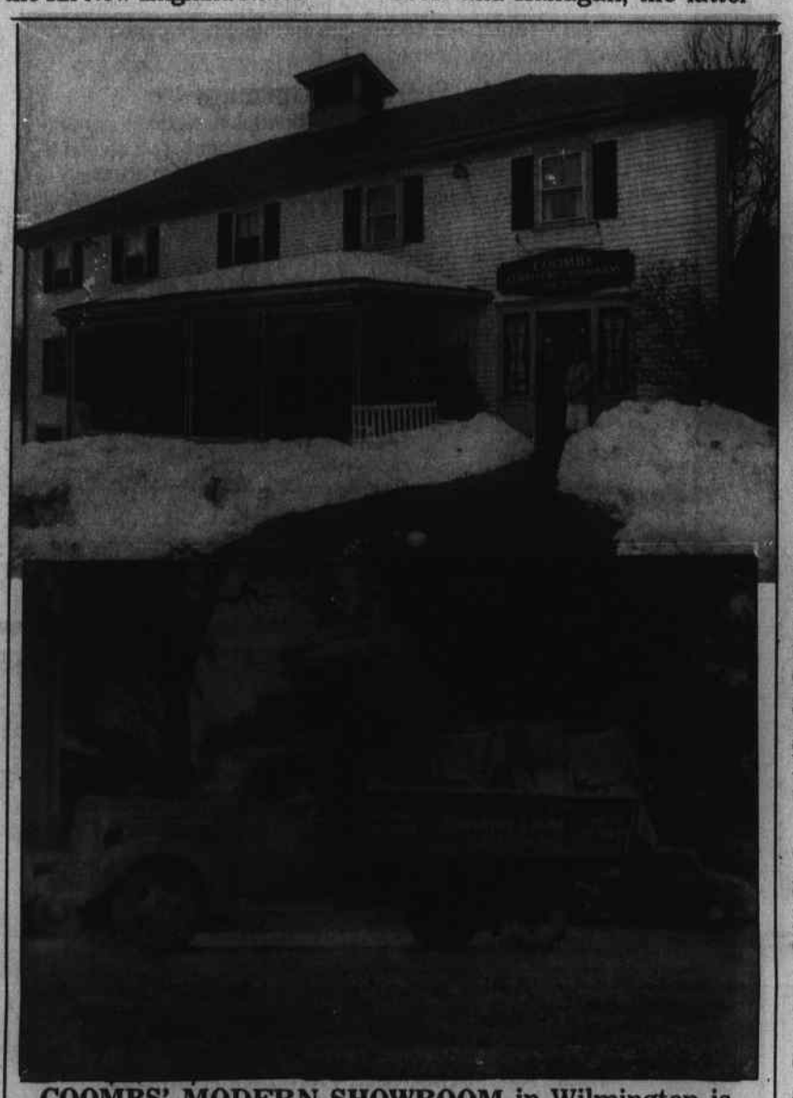

During the sprint of 1934, Eugene L. Coombs of Wilmington was thinking about going into business for himself using his home and large vintage barn for his retail space. Up to that time, Mr. Coombs had been selling on the road for carpet manufacturers throughout the six New England states.

Representing Bigelow, M.J. Whittall, W.J. Sloane, Firth and Alexander Smith, he was also associated with a wholesale carpet store on Friend Street in Boston selling to retail and department carpet stores all over New England.

That summer Eugene Coombs decided to go ahead with his idea for a retail location at his barn in Wilmington and began selling his lines of carpets and rugs there. Before long customers urged him to carry more in the home furnishings line, and Coombs obliged, bringing in quality furniture manufacturers like Drexel, Thomas P. Beals, Heywood-Wakefield, Marganton, Maddox Desks, also S. Bent & Bros. and Hallagan, the latter two still carried at Coombs today; lines that have proved the test of time. And so began "The E.L. Coombs Furniture Company."

Eugene's son, Corydon, worked after school at Coombs, entering the business full time after graduation from high school in 1938, working for the grand sum of $5 per week. He spent 28 months in the Army Air Force during World War II piloting B-17s in Europe, returning after the war to the family business. In 1939, Eugene asked his son-in-law, Mr. Stevens, to come down from his job at a mill in Sanford, Maine;, to work at the growing store; he fit in so well, he remained a vital employee until he retired in 1963.

Eugene, the founder of Coombs Furniture, decided to semi- retire after the war and young Corydon and Stevens took over day to day operations. Mr. Coombs the founder passed away in 1961.

All through these years, Coombs Furniture has been an active part of the Wilmington community, sponsoring Little League and bowling leagues; Mr. Coombs has also been active in the Wilmington Rotary Club since its inception in 1945. The year 1968 brought another member of the family into the business when Bonnie Coombs, Corydon's daughter joined the team. Bonnie Coombs Gobeille, with 24 years of experience, now manages the retail store operation. Howard Coombs, Corydon's son, asked to come into the business in 1974, and stayed until March of 1992.

More changes in the year 1994 have been brought to this still growing family enterprise. Completely redecorated showrooms feature some of the most famous, quality names in the furniture trade, including a full line of Lane occasional and Action furniture, famous Hitchcock designs, furniture from S. Bent, Conover, Nichols & Stone, Tell City Chair Co., Bradington, Hallagan, Young and many more.

For 60 years Coombs has been growing and changing with the times maintaining the old fashioned quality, service and value to their customers, while keeping the timeless design and workmanship of the products they carry. A full home decorator service is available to Coombs cliants to assure satisfaction with the furnishings chosen for each home.

This Veterans' Day Weekend, "The One & Only" Coombs Furniture will celebrate its 60th Anniversary by welcoming one and all to visit the special savings of receiving 10% of the customer's total purchase back in Bonus Dollars to be used on any items in the showrooms during this three day celebration.

Concert Saturday

Staines at Linden Tree

Bill Staines

Bill Staines is back at the Linden Tree Coffeehouse on Saturday, November 12th. Anyone not familiar with his music is in for a special treat.

For over 20 years, Bill has traveled back and forth across America, singing his songs and delighting audiences at festivals, colleges, concerts, and coffeehouses.

Radio and television appearances have included "A Prairie Home Companion," "Mountain Stage," and a host of local programs on PBS and network TV. He has become one of the most entertaining singers on the folk music circuit today.

Bill weaves a magical blend of wit and gentle humor into his performances. One reviewer wrote, "His music is a slice of Americana, reflecting with the same ease, his feelings about the prairie people of the Midwest or the adventures of the Yukon."

A number of his songs have been recorded by other musicians including Nanci Griffith, Makem and Clancy. Fifteen of his 18 albums are still in print, two new in 1993. And Bill can yodel, even winning a national championship in 1975.

Opening for Bill Staines at 8 p.m. will be Martha Leader, a local performer at area coffeehouses and the Bread and Roses Festival held yearly in Lawrence each Labor Day.

Tickets for this special concert are $9. Doors will be open at 7:30 p.m. Local concert goers should plan to come early as seating is limited and many of Bill Staines' fans will travel great distances for his shows.

The Linden Tree Coffeehouse is located in the social hall of the Unitarian-Universalist Church, 326 Main St., Wakefield. For information call (617) 246-2836.
